ROME, June 27-Like their comrades around the country, the members of the Monte. verde Nuovo section of the Italian Communist Party met last week to analyze election results and the work they had done for the cause. i...

The basement room of their headquarters in a middle class district was decorated with a picture of the party's founder, Antonio Gramsci, an intense young face crowned with bushy hair, and a standard iconograph of Marx, Engels and Lenin.

The legend under it in Russian, said: "Glory to the Great Innovators of Scientific Communism."

"It was a gift, we aren't very proud of it," explained Claudio Fracessi, an official of the group who had worked as correspondent in Moscow as correspondent paper, for the party's popular paper,

Section is Key Unit ... Section is Key Unit

The section, next above the basic cell in Communist deganization, is the heart of party life in Italy, members explained. The Monteverde group has 500 members, half of them people who work in the three hig hospitals nearby and the others residents of the neighborhood. In most Communist parties, the cell is the key organizational unit, but in Italy it tends to be the larger section.

"It's like the Englishmeo's said Mr. Fracassi, s tall and slick young man with a dashing Rudolph Valentino mustache "We drop in every night to see our friends, al-though the executive committee only meets once a week and the section about once a.

It is bard to imagine any other Communist Party that would admit outsiders, let alone a pair of American reporters, to a regular member-ship meeting. The secretary did make an announcement when the visitors arrived, and heads turned to stare, hut then the meeting went on, apparently as usual. First, the secretary spoke about the successful elections and the tremendous amount of work members had dooe knocking on doors, button-holing voters, spreading the fact report on the results by Serenella Caprini, members got up one by one to deliver their views. Some 20 out of the 60 or 70 people present sought the flood, but though it was called a discussion. each made a speech with little or no comment or interruption from the attentive audience.

A 'Democratic' Party

"That's the way it is," said Annibale Paloscia after the three-and-a-hadf-hour meeting ended. "Open, lively debate, anybody can say whatever they want. Ours is a very democratic party."

Several speakers praised the party and appealed for even harder work in the "many battles ahead." A slim young woman in an embroidered white blouse, who turned out to be Mr. Fracassi's wife, analyzed the Italian press analysis of the campaign and said the rea-son the Christian Democrats son the Christian Democrats had held on to their support and had come out shead of the Communists was that they had used "a strategy of tension." It was going to take a "convergence of all progressive forces" to overcome the opposition, she said.

That is the basic party line, and nobody disagreed, although there were variations in the importance given to the fight against the enemy or to the effort to woo away

"The people aren't really anti-Communist politically," he said. "It was just that they were scared by threats that they would lose their houses or their farms."

"That's called McCarthy-

"It's the strategy of fear, fear that brings putrefaction."
Ugh."

When it was the turn of a they were in bad trouble and they would have voted Com-munist in much greater rum-bers if they had been prom-ised that pensions would be increased at the same rate

only laughed the more and

"Oh, the hypocrisy of men. She said she talked with you for an hour the other day, Claudio. How can you ask who she is? She's very pretty. And, of course, like the good Communist I am, I could only encourage her if she's drawn to the party by one of ours." Later, the talk turned back to party affairs and the coming European Communist conference in East Berlin.

"Of course, it isn't very important," said Claudio. "How can you be interested. in that? What's interesting is the line of the Italian Communist Party."

It seemed a surprising comment, especially from a Communist who was also a journalist and who had lived five years in Moscow. Annibale explained afterward. "Claudio always says he's expressing his own opin-ion, but really he is always giving the exact party view. The party hasn't made much of the conference. It hasn't been discussed in our papers. After all, some people might, wonder why Berlinguer is going to see Brezhnev when we have made such a point of: our independence from Moscow. And on the other hand, it might upset the Russians if we said too publicly that we don't think it means anything much to meet with them. Naturally, the comment must be careful."

It was definitely all Italian style, including the willingcess to admit outsiders, but it was also definitely and recognizably Communist and

The charge raises a possibility that millions of tons of cement, ruined in the hulls of waiting freighters, has found its way to small contractors.

"Estimates say that as much as half of the cement went bad," said ooe official who has been following the scandal closely. "Nobody knows where it went. It certainly wasn't thrown out. It's being mixed in with good cement to stretch it

"In two or three years, we may be seeing buildings col-lapsing all over Nigeria," tha official added.

The cement scandal was a major reason for the coup that overthrew the regime of former Gen. Yakuha Gowon last July. Under General Gowon, Government officials ordered 20 million tons of cement—16 million tons by the Ministry of Defense alone—to be delivered within 12 mooths.

Twice the Port Capacity
At a rate of 1.6 million tons
a month, the shipments were more than twice the unloading capacity of all of Nigeria's ports combined.

The massive orders led to an armada of ships anchored off the Lagos coastline. In September, there were over 420 freighters, stretching as far as the eye could ace. Many were decrepit hulks manned by skeleton crews dispatched by ship owners to collect demurrage costs—$4,100 a day per ship.

Some of these ships waited for eight months to a year. In the moisture-ridden hulls, the cement they were carrying lost its hindiog quality after six mooths and became worthless for construction.

In some instances, the bags burst during unloading, spew-ing cement ooto the ground. At one depot, at Kirikiri aloog the Badagary Creek, the cement was simply rehagged and sold at reduced prices.

The new Government ap-pointed a tribunal to iovestigate the scandal. But it seems to have made little progress in

Baudouin's Steady Reign Bolsters Belgian Throne

By PAUL KEMEZIS

BRUSSELS, June 27-In July 1951, a shy, nervous young man of 21 wearing eyeglasses and an oversized army uniform was sworn in as King of the Belgians, taking over a shaky throna from his disgraced father, Leopold

This weekend, the Belgians celebrated the silver jubilee of the reign of King Bau-douin, and the throne is on solid ground. The once neryous youth, now with conlenses and a relaxed smile, is one of Europe'a most experienced and respected

The gala celebration, the climax of two months of festivities around the couotry, drew over 200,000 persons to the former world's fair grounds in Brussels despite searing 90-degree heat. The crowd watched athletic events and folk dancers, heard jazz and symphony music and saluted the King aod the Spanish-born Queen,

Naturally ahy, Baudouin has never developed a char-ismatic appeal in Belgium, but he has won popularity for the aeriousness and dependability with which be carries out bis duties. Because of the country's language divisinn, these are more complicated and important than those of most other European heads of state, royal or otherwise.

A Good Listener The King has real political power only during a governmental crisis, when acting on his own authority he names the new prime minister. A good listener with excellent lines to all parties and a talented set of advisers, Baudouin has performed this duty well, avoiding the sort of bitter battles with politicians that contributed to his father's downfall.

Leopold, a stiff, self-confiman, refused advice from his Government to go into exile during the hectic day of May, 1940. He spent the war in Belgium and later in Germany as a prisoner and was forced from office by the Socialists five years later on charges of collaboration. On a day-to-day basis, the Belgian King performs the difficult function of a bridge between the country's Frenchspeaking Walloon and Dutchspeaking Flemish communi-

During Baudouin's 25-year reign, Flanders has grown rich and strong, winning political and cultural equality with once dominant Wallonia. This has driven the two communities further apart as po-litical parties, trade unions and even Government minis-tries have split along regional.

Autonomy Is Welcomed The great majority of Belgians welcome this increase of regional eutonomy and the moves toward a Federal system, but they do not want a total separation of the two a total separation of the two parts into independent states. For them, the royal bouse, one of the last really "Bel-gian institutions, is a guar-antee of continued union.

In recant years Baudouin has skillfully brought the thinking of the royal house, previously a bastion of the old centralist state system, into line with this trend. In an historic address to Parlia-ment in March, he said re-giocalization was "part of a necessary modernization that met the needs of the coun-

Setting what will probably be the keyhote for the rest his reign, he added that "to federate is to unite in agreement to differ and not to separate and confront."

The King's scrupulously neutral role between the language groups also has practical political benefits. Belgian politicians poiot out with relief that he allows them to avoid a fight over electing a Walloon or Flemisb president. "He saves us one crisis we don't need," said one political observer.

Quiet Public Image Because of the nuances of his position, which is differ-ent from the straightforward symbol of national bonnr that most European mor-archs represent, Budouin has been forced to dampen his public personality.

"The King has no very enthusiastic following." says one Belgian political observer. "hut this is good because it means he will never have passionate opposition."

In daily life this means he subjects. "Baudouin could never be seen out in the country riding a bicycle like Juliana does in Holland," one court official said. "It just wouldn't fit here."

In line with this policy. the King never expresses private opinions in public and does not grant press intrr-

Painful Restraint

The imposed public restraint can be painful. The King, visiting a flood-ravaged area near Antwerp in March, was assailed by a crowd of people loudly com-plaining that Government negligence in repairing dikes had caused the flooding. Forced to remain virtually silent, he could only act once back at his office, passing on complaints to ministers.

For Baudouln personally, this low-key public image was a blessing in the early years of his reign. At that time he was still a melancholy young man developing a personality in the shadow of his embittered father, who continued living at the Royal Palace on the outskirts of Brussels for years after he resigned. The former King still is living near Brussels. United States and the Belgian Congo, now Zaire, in 1959. plus the marriage to the more extroverted Fabiola, seemed to mark King Baudouin's arrival to adulthood and self-confidence. "He matured slowly," said one former am-bassador to Belgium, "but he became a fine, intelligent

Less Stuffy

While Baudouin is considered warm and personable in private, he still has a lonely side. The fact that the royal couple has produced no off-spring has reinforced this tendency. The King has developed a close relationship with Phillip, son of his young-er brother, Prince Alhert. Al-though Alhert is technically oext in line of succession, the 15-year-old boy will probably become the next King if Baudouin lives out his natu-

"Personally, there's not a big difference to me in the taste of Doral and my old brand. They are both good smokes. But Doral is 6 milligrams lower in 'tar.'

"That's 120 mg. less 'tar' a pack. I go through about a carton a week—so it adds up to about 1200 mg. less 'tar' on this 'Doral Diet.' Best of all, I'm not smoking statistics, but Doral—a good tasting cigarette."

The outgoing, defeated white administrations lost political power, but invariably they retained the economic power in the community and often tried to use it to "get even." They control the land, so much needed for the expansion of housing as well as for job-producing industrial expansion, and are unwilling to part with it easily.

The black political victors were usually very poor, and because they did not know the levers for prying away the state and government aid, and often were reluctant to ask the aid from agencies they suspected of being racist, they were impeded in their thrust for improvement.

PLAINS, Ga., June 27—There is a growing trickle of tourists flowing through this little south Georgia town of 683 people, the home of Jimmy Carter, who will surely be the next Democratic Presidential nominee.

> Carolina Governor Doubts Airlines Using Buses Most of South Backs Carter For Canada Traffic

With United States pilots refusing to fly into Canada because of support for a strike by Canadian pilots, United States airlines are offering combined plane and hus transportation from New York to Canadian cities. Eastern and Allegheny

Airlines, which normally fly to Montréal, are flying passengers to Burlington. Vt., and taking them on a three-hour bus trip from there to Mon-treal. Allegheny and Ameri-can Airlines, which usually have service to Toronto, are now flying passengers to Buffalo and then transporting them in two-and-a-half hours by bus to Toponto. Air Canada, the major line to Montreal and Toronto, is not operating at all.

Canadian pilots suspended operations last Monday, ex-cept for a few regional airlines, in protest against the Government's proposal to authorize use of French as well as English for air traffic control at airports in French.

COLUMBIA, S.C., June 27 (UPI) Gov. James B. Edwards said today that a majority of Southerners would not vote for former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, whom he described as man who wants to grant amnesty "to the yellow-bellies who were afraid to fight in Vietnam."

Governor Edwards speaking to the South Carolina delegation to the Republican National Convention, said he believed Ronald Reagan could counter Mr. Carter's popularity and win election in November. But said all Republicans must support the party's Presidential nominee, whoever he is.

'I don't believe the South will buy Jimmy Carter," Mr. Edwards said. "He is nothing more than a Southern-talking George McGovern."

New York City is Facing a Health Crisis!

VOLUNTARY HOSPITALS—THE PROVIDERS
OF THE FINEST PATIENT CARE IN THIS CITY AND IN THIS COUNTRY-ARE FACED WITH A CRISIS WHICH THREATENS IRREPARABLE DAMAGE TO THE QUALITY OF HEALTH CARE YOU AND YOUR FAMILIES RECEIVE IN THESE NON-PROFIT INSTITUTIONS.

The members of District 1199 of the National Union of Hospital and Health Care Employees want a cost of living increase. We do not have the ability, based on our controlled reimbursement, to meet such a demand. The Union, representing 40,000 workers of our hospitals and nursing homes, HAS GIVEN NOTICE OF ITS INTENT TO STRIKE OUR INSTITUTIONS ON JULY 7TH IF IT DOES NOT ACHIEVE ITS DEMANDS.

Most of the operating income of our non-profit facilities is money they receive for the care they give patients. New York State, which sets the rates at which Blue Cross and Medicaid pay our institutions for patient care, has not allowed a rate increase since January 1975. eighteen months ago. Since then we have incurred cost increases -- in malpractice insurance, energy, cost of supplies and wages and benefits.

NO ONE DISPUTES THAT THIS CARE IS COSTLY and that rational steps should be taken to control these costs. However, the need for quality care remains. Our hospital and nursing home beds remain virtually filled, and we too need income to survive.

Otherwise, we in New York City are in danger of a severe reduction of services open heart surgery, kidney dialysis, transplants, cancer therapy, cardiac care, longterm care for the elderly, and other life sustaining ser-

We have already reduced payroll by layoffs and at-trition and have effected extensive economies while maintaining quality patient services. We have now been pushed to the breaking point. We are adamant about not going beyond this point.

Should we eliminate our very costly outpatient services which provide medical care to hundreds of thousands of New Yorkers to whom it is otherwise unavailable? Should we diminish or discontinue some of the lifesaving services which you, the public need and to which you are entitled?

WE DO NOT INTEND TO DO THIS. WE KNOW THAT YOU WOULD NOT WANT US TO DO THIS. WE SHOULD NOT BE FORCED TO MAKE THIS

But Tedeschi's ideas about jazz are highly stylized, just as the rest of the music is. The main influence is the sec-ond Viennese school, though of course Italian expression-ism is more lyric than its Teutonic counterpart. "Paolino" is a serious and compe-tent work, just as "Der Kaiser von Atlantis" is. The trouble with both works is the fact that the play is stronger and more interest-ing than the music, and that dancer comes along whose mdividuality is so distinct that he does not belong to any type or category. Peter Schanfuss is such a dancer, and his first appearance as Oberon Saturday night at the State Theater in the New York City Ballet's "A Midsumer Night's

Mr. Schaufuss danced the Balanchine choreography with precision, elegance and classical style. His dramatic presence was always strong. Yet, at the same time, the role

Like many Danish dancers, he has extraordinary ballon, or ability to remain suspended in the air for some time during a leap. As a result, this was an Oberon who soared rather than flew. The choreography for the fairy monarch has always been based on quick, darting steps and leg beats. On this occa-sions, the illusion of speed was lost because the arc of Mr. Schaufuss's high jumps tended As the vagabond, Mr. New- to leave him hanging in one place rather than carry him forward as in flight. GOIDGOCH

Special to The New York Three ATLANTIC CITY, June 26 The Bay City Rollers, a Scot-tish rock band that is the idol of young girls in Europe and that had a recent No. i American single, slipped into the Steel Pier Music Hall here tonight for its first American coocert performance.

The scene in the hall before the band came on was wonderfully, oostalgically reminiscent of rock-and-roll m its golden youth. The ten-sion in the air was so palpa-ble it made you smile: "As soon as they come out, I'll die," said one 12-year-old to her friend, and there wasn't a hint of camp or irony in

The girls (there were a few boys there, too, and a sprinkling of older teen-agers and puzzled parents, but it was the young girls that defined the crowd) would scream in ear-splitting unison at the slightist provocation. A stack of Marshall amplifiers is nothing next to a crazed young teen-aged girl in full yelp; a sound man later reported that the Rollers had mustered 105 decibels of

Finally to the strains of Elgar's "Pomp and Circum-stance" March No. 2 and a rocket countdown, the Rollers appeared, dressed in jump suits or open shirts a chipper string of smiling cartoons made out of shagged bair, bashful smiles and British and Bicentennial variants on red, white and sound, the girls managed

The band played for less than an bour, interrupted for five minutes when too many fans crowded on the stage and insisted on kissing the pleyers. There was oo open-ing act, yet nobody com-plained about the shortness of the show; in the fans' world, this was a historic demands their money back from his-

it was hard to tell much be- worse," offered the optimisyood the brute fact that, yes, tic Tom Paton, the Rollers' they can sing and play and aren't just puppets in the hands of their record producers. Afterward, in the dressing room, the band was unhappy about the security and sound system. In truth all one could bave heard through the screams was the vocal, the crunching drums and a little bass. All the Rollers professed themselves pleased with the way their American debut had gone. "Usually we're on a tour, but this was just one night, so I thick we got by really well," said Derek Longmuir, the drummer, who speaks in a rather more penetrable accept than some of his mates. "In 10 months' time, it will be 10 times

Mr. Paton may be opti-mistic, but he is playing a very diffident role this time arouod. When the Rollers arrived bere last year for publicity appearances, the air was full of the most blatant hyperbole. Sid Bernstein, the hand's American representative, had brought over the Beatles a decade ago, and wasn't shy about stressing the parallel. The result was a damaging hacklash even be-fore the first single was re-

Since then, Mr. Paton and Mr. Bernstein have been building the Rollers' reputation among its potential fans, and laving off the cynical adult press and even the older pop fans' publica-tions. Apart from the records (three singles and two albums so far) there has been a short promotional tour and a syndicated television show aimed at a young audience. Eveo tonight's seemingly casual date was part of the plan-not only to defuse the charges of hype, but also to get publicity in the teen-age press for the band at the time of its first formal American tour beginning Aug. 16.

All of which is well and good. Do the Rollers amount to anything more than a sociological phenomenon of a type hardly unprecedented in early-mid-60's pop?

So far — bearing in mind that everyone has the capacity for growth—they haven't really indicated that they do. They simply don't have the sort of blazing passion for rock that the Beatles did (see the older band's recent rock anthology on Capitol for proof of that).

But young fans of young bands must get very tired in-deed at having the 60's ex-humed by older critics, and the sheer voltage of the ex citement here did much to purge this particular critic of patronizing nostalgia.

For Rollers' fans, after all. the thrill of actually seeing their idols on stage is so over-whelming that critical distinctions become meaningless. So what if Paul McCartney did it "better"? This is Leslie McKeown doing it now.

The Rollers may yet grow into something significant in the history of rock-and-roll. "Saturday Night," their No. 1 single, was a far more ciever song than much of what one hears on A.M. radio these days. But for the moment they serve as cuddly fantasy-objects for an increasing international cult of young girls and fare far more appealing and healthy in image than they might be. So what's wrong with that, I'd like to know?

Revival of 'Pal Joey' No Friend of Original environment. But existing Broadway musicals bave al

By CLIVE BARNES With what must have been an almost audible sigh of relief from its producers, that apparently ill-fated revival of "Pal Joey" has finally made it to the Circle in the Square Theater. It made its official bow yesterday afternoon after many birth pangs and much hearthurn.

Originally Edward Villella making his singing and acting debut-was cast as the hoofer and punk's punk, Joey, while Eleanor Parker was to have been Vera, the rich so-cialite who finds Joey deprived and depraved and decides to befriend his body. On paper the casting sounded o good idea, io practice it epparently worked out disastrously, even despite the loyal ministrations on bis behalf by Mr. Villella's very own New York City Ballet gurus, George Balanchine and Jerome Robbins.

The director. Theodore Mann, finally released Mr. Villella and Miss Parker, and decided to go along with their understudies. This was balf of o good idea; but the wrong belf — Joey, himself, now played by Christopher Chadman, was one of the two strikes against this revival from the beginning.

The second strike is, unfortunately, the theater itself. I still have to be convinced that the Circle in the Square is a good place for revivals of Broadway musicals, al-though, in passing, one could possibly envisage a musical specially designed for the ways heeo designed for the proscenium arch and, by show-biz standards, a fairly large orchestra. Now it might be argued that so far as the proscenium arch is concerned, Ibseo was intended for a proscenium, yet fits well enough into the more personal setting of theater in the semiround. Yes, but really oo. A Broad-way musical needs an orchestra pit capable of an occa-sional hrassy sassiness, the specific scenic cooventions that the proscenium arch offers. A great playwright can be staged in a locker room. A musical — which is, after all, a collaboration not at all public an open — demands milke an opera — demands one of those old-time thea-ters. Oddly enough, "Pal Joey," with its intercutting between nightclubs, street quires this convention more than most.

"Pal Joey" happeos to be one of my very favorite musicals—I have always adored it to distraction. Richard Rodgers was very different as a composer when he was collaborating with Lorenz Hart than when be was with Oscar Hammerstein 2d, or indeed anyone clse. With Hart he could always be guaraoteed to produce the sound of literacy rather than the slurp of syrup, and Hart's acerbic cynicism, which emerges in so many of bis lyrics, and also his worldli-ness, really sparked off some-thing wonderful in Rodgers.

This is a magical score.

Also the musical had John O'Hara going for it. O'Hara's book is sometimes clumsy-one of the best numbers "Zip" is structurally totally irrelevant, for example, and was it added on the road?and almost always diffuse, still there is a depth and gracefulness to it that is elegant. There is also char-acter bere—the cocky little gigolo and the older woman who is besotted with bim. ALBANY, June 27-Stanley Steingut said "No" the other day, which is pretty good proof that the state's cootinning experiment in selfgovernment, the Albany leg-islative session, is about over. The evidence rests on two absolute rules of state politics. The first is that Stanley Steingut, the Brook-lyn Democrat who is Speaker of the Assembly, did not get where he is today by saying "no" to anyone except under

The second rule is that as adjournment fever begins rushing like an outlaw urge through the Legislature, the 210 Assemblymen and Senators experience a strong desire to squeeze their pet bills through to passage before the final gavel falls. My Family Remembered By children or two in the bathtub alongside the author when the likes of Beatrice Lillie and Dorothy Parker first glimpsed him as a small child? How consistent was Ring Lardner Sr. about writing "fellow" as "fella" instead of "feller"?

> This overvaluation even takes on a note of defensiveness in Mr. Lardner's indictment of the 'literary critics and historians, whose lethal occupation is the dissection of living prose," for refusing "to take [Ring Lardner] to their bosoms" because "he wrote for, and managed to please, the con-spicuously conjutellectual readers of the popular magazines." If Mr. Lardner is so sure of his father's status as a popular artist, why does he even bother with those critics who were clearly more interested in the avant-garde?

Enduring Appeal

Not that there isn't much about the Lardner family worth rating extremely high. The father was a bittersweet humorist of enduring appeal—a fact that is con-firmed not only by many anecdotes that his son recalls bere ("How do you look when I'm sober?" Lardner once asked a flamboyantly dressed actor at the Lambs Club), but also by a new collection—"Some Champioos: Sketches and Fiction by Ring Lardner, ... edited by Matthew J. Bruccoli end Richard Layman (205 pages, Scribner's, $8.95)—which, if not up to the very best of Lardner, proves that even his second best has stood the test of time. Ring Jr.'s two older brothers. John and Jint, and his younger brother David, obviously inherited not his path-finding originality. And as for the author's mother, Ellis Abbott Lard-ner: the picture that emerges here of her early years, before the deaths of her husband and children began to darken her spirits, breathes new life into the old cliche that someone who enjoys life makes life enjoyable for others.

But to premise an entire memoir on the family's inherent appeal-that is so far out of bounds as to make one wonder if it was some stimulus other than effectioo that moved Mr. Lardner to record his memories. Could it have been guilt over being the only child of the four to live longer than the 48 years his father did? Or was it connected in some obscure way with the undeniable streak of self-destructiveness that seems to have been present in all the male members of the family? One cannot presume to speculete; Mr. Lardner reveals too little of himself in these pages—nor anything else from the psychological depths beyond the specula-tion that the source of his father's unhappiness lay in his prudishness. Unfortunately, the excellence of the family is not sufficient to fill the resulting vacuum.

A Busing Fraud

President Ford's recently unveiled anti-busing legislation is every bit as mischievous and disingenuous as had been expected. Even its title, the School Desegregation Standards and Assistance Act of 1976, is something of a consumer fraud. The name seems to promise something constructive while the proposal actually seeks to dismantle a good portion of the legal groundwork supporting the constitutional effort to desegregate the nation's

The disharmony between the bill's title and its contents reflects accurately the nature and spirit of the Administration's recent approach to busing. The bill is designed to limit the extent to which the Federal judiciary may use busing to remedy unconstitutional segregation of minority school children. It sets an outside limit of five years on the duration of such court orders. It also seeks to limit the busing remedy to specific governmental acts and to specific schools with substantially more precision than the courts have deemed possible and, indeed, in ways the Supreme Court has rejected

There can be little question that the President's proposal would diminish substantially the right of minority school children not to be segregated. After one of the President's much-publicized recent meetings on busing, the superintendent of schools of Charlotte-Mecklenburg, N.C.—where court-ordered busing has been proceeding smoothly for a number of years—observed that the President's proposed five-year time limit would be a setback for the country and would also lead to resegre-

Moreover, the legislation poses a large constitutional problem. The Supreme Court has defined the desegregation right and, over time, has fashioned remedies it deems appropriate to secure that right. The Court has made it quite clear that it has no intention of revoking the right and, consequently, it is hardly conceivable that it would countenance any diminution by Congress of the remedies that make the right meaningful. Since members of Congress know this as well as anyone, the Administration's whole exercise seems more of a political show than anything else.

The President, in asserting that his bill is designed "to place the debate . . . in the halls of Congress . . . not in the streets of our cities," is misreading the nation's experience of busing. His proposal proceeds on the assumption that less busing produces less violence whereas actual practice in Charlotte-Mecklenburg, Tampa-Hillsborough and other districts shows just the opposite to be true. There is less conflict in those communities where the busing plan is broadly based and encompasses many elements in the community.

But the ultimate conflict and the ultimate shame arise from the difference between what the President says and what he does. In the message accompanying this bill, that this Administration will not tolerate unlawful segregation. ... We will act swiftly and effectively against anyone who engages in violence."

In fact, the President has consistently acted since his 1974 expression of opposition to the Boston busing order in a way to give comfort to those resisting the efforts of the courts to achieve desegregation. In giving lip service to equality while working to limit it, the President has diminished his credibility and his moral authority

Imponderables for Italy

Italy's prospects of successfully coping with its colossal economic problems while preserving its thirty-yearold democratic system now depend largely on two factors:

(1) the capacity of the Christian Democratic Party for harnessing the country's immense human resources, and

(2) the willingness of the second-place Communists to make a positive contribution to the recovery process rather than obstructing or sabotaging it.

In any serious effort to turn around the inflationridden economy, the Catholic party at times will require the neutrality of the Communists and perhaps even their active support. Because of election losses by the Socialists and other smaller democratic parties, this dependence on Communist benevolence will surely be greater in the aftermath of the recent election than it has been at any time during the last several years.

Such dependence will be precarious for a government with an uncertain parliamentary majority. But it probably is the least hazardous political way for Italy to travel in the near future. Badly needed economic and financial assistance from allied countries and international agencies is far more likely to materialize if the Communists remain outside the government-even 2 government that will be forced on occasion to rely on

The willingness of the Communists to cooperate with the Christian Democrats after an acrimonious campaign in which the Catholic party revived "red scare" tactics with a vengeance is one of Italy's major imponderables. But the Communist leader, Enrico Berlinguer, may actually prefer at this stage to provide occasional help from the sidelines to joining a multi-party government of national unity that he proposed during the campaign.

Such informal assistance would enable Mr. Berlinguer to escape direct responsibility for difficult government actions while continuing to polish his image as a moderate Communist, independent of Moscow and willing to collaborate with the Catholics for the national good.

Another main imponderable is what direction the Christian Democrats will take after regaining the ground they lost in the 1975 regional elections and finishing prise, and that it can stay the course.

narrowly ahead of the Communists for yet another time. If the faction that imposed strident anti-Communism as the main theme of the election campaign should prevail. the Catholic party can hardly expect even the minimum Communist cooperation. But wiser heads in the party leadership know that deadlock, stagnation and disintegration lie inevitably along that road.

If the elections confirmed the Christian Democrats as Italy's leading political force, certain to head any govemment for the predictable future, they also confirmed that the Communist tide is still flowing in Italy-a development of which any government must take account, a fact of life with which Italy's friends and allies must abide.

The Young Lawbreaker

A bipartisan proposal in Albany to deal with serious crimes committed by 14- and 15-year-olds eschews the destructive get-tough approach of throwing youngsters into the criminal maelstrom. Instead, youthful offenders would remain within the present juvenile justice system, to be judged by the Family Court and supervised by the Division of Youth. Although the bill is by no means "soft" on the young lawbreakers, it at least considers rehabilitation possible and desirable.

After special dispositional hearings following conviction, those juveniles guilty of murder in the first or second degrees, kidnapping or arson would be confined in a secure setting for one year, a less restrictive. residential facility for a second year, followed by three more years of aftercare. For lesser but nevertheless serious crimes, the period of confinement would be three years. In both instances supervision would continue until the age of 21.

While supporting the bill, the children's rights committee of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York underscores the need for due process-including written findings of the facts in these cases—and points out that in order for a new law to be effective, the Family Court and Division of Youth should be given the resources to judge offenders diligently and restructure their young lives properly.

The provisions of the bill recognize that the community has a right to be protected against crimes of violence. At the same time, there is need for a more effective and rehabilitation-oriented approach to juvenile justice. New York today has more juveniles under 18 in jail than any other state. The challenge is not just to lock up youthful criminals but to turn them from a threat into an asset to themselves and to society.

Housing in Jeopardy

The benefits of urban home ownership-old homes as well as new-are no longer subject to question. In the city's most stable residential areas, cooperatives have generally remained well-maintained and fully taxpaving. Their tenant-owners have continued to meet the rising costs of housing.

In principle, therefore, it was a welcome trend when owners some years ago began to convert rental buildings into cooperatives. Serious objections were nevertheless legitimately raised when rental tenants were often faced with the grim alternative of buying or being evicted. Bitterness among tenants was a common phenomenon in buildings in the process of conversion.

Clearly needed was a method of converting to cooperatives without depriving tenants of a choice. The state Attorney General's office developed one: If owners agreed to allow renters to stay on as renters, individual apartments could be sold as cooperatives or condominiums as they became vacant. Owners who agreed. to follow this path, the state's highest court ruled, could avoid the requirement of city law that 35 percent of tenants must vote for conversion before it could become effective. But when Harry B. Helmsley actually tried to adopt this procedure in Parkchester in the Bronz, the Legislature enacted the Dearie-Goodman law restoring the 35 percent requirement for all conversions, even when there was no threat of evictions.

The Assembly has approved a renewal of this law which has virtually brought conversion to cooperative ownership to a standstill. The Senate ought to kill it, on the ground that while conversions to condominiums and choperatives cannot cure the housing depression in this city, they can do much to relieve it.

100 Plus 100 More

Johnny-come-latelies, runaway corporations and other short-winded scoffers at Manhattan are not eligible for membership in this city's most enduring charmed circle -the Hundred Year Association. For this is the organization of business enterprises, trade, industrial, professional and philanthropic groups that have flourished in this city for a century or more.

Today the circle of over 300 eligible organizations will honor an even more exclusive group within its ranksthose of its members functioning for more than two centuries. Among the 200-year-oldsters to be honored today, the oldest is Collegiate School, founded by the early Dutch settlers in 1638 and still going strong. Then there are the Sun Insurance Office Ltd. (1710); Bellevue Hospital (1736); Caswell-Massey Company, "chemists and perfumers" founded in 1752, and quite a few others, including Columbia University (1754), the Society of the New York Hospital (1771); and Bowne & Co., which started out in 1775 selling quills and pens, powder, furs and nails, and is now an important printer of business

The Hundred Year Association and its members serve to remind New Yorkers and the nation that this city was—and remains—the cradle of education and enter-

Letters to the Editor

Nuclear Safety: The Fundamental Question On Destroy. To the Editor:

It is, of course, preferable to make the civilian nuclear power program as safe as possible But is it possible to make nuclear power safe? This most fundamental of questions is dodged in your otherwise commendable June 15 editorial "Nuclear Safety."

There is no doubt, as industry spokespeople and Government officials keep assuring us, that no technology in history has ever been the recipient of such a sustained effort to avoid accident and malfunction. But might we not still conclude that the technology remains tod dangerous; or on a deeper level, is inherently incapable of being rendered safe given the character of the risks? When considering the massive effort to make the nuclear industry acceptably safe Hannes Alfven, a Nobel Laureate in physics, commented that it "is perhaps pethetic, but it is not relevant. If a problem is too difficult to solve, one cannot claim that it is solved by pointing to all the efforts made to solve it."

Such a reaction to the nuclear safety issue is not merely theoretical. Alongside the technological hazards as sociated with waste disposal of nitratoxic substances lether for many thousands of years and the tisk of catastrophic accidents releasing sadio activity over wide inhabited steas are other issues associated with human control over dangerous technology. Even if we could contemplate a nearly flawless technology, we could not pos-sibly envisage either a disviess cadre of human overseers of this technology or social arrangements of such durability as to provide protection for tens of centuries. Merely stating the issue exposes the folly. Reluctantly I have reached the conclusion that we are the wrong species for this technology. If this is so, or might be, then it is ultimately diversionary to sliggest, even by implication, that safety is the crux of the struggle against nuclear power. RICHARD A. FALK

Our Vital Red Mangrove Swamps

Deltona's design for destruction of some 3,000 acres of mangrove swamp on Florida's Marco Island may not be dead. But for the sake of the millions of empty human stomachs and empty human lives in this and other countries, let us hope it is.

In his June I Op-Ed article, "Marco's Minions," William H. Jack showed abysmal ignorance of the natural laws governing estuaries and total disregard for all the published biological data and information presented at public hearings and courtroom battles dealing with this dredge-and-fill project. It was on this information that the Army Corps of Engineers based its decision to apply the law of the land.

Nearly all commercially important marine fishes, shrimp, crabs and oysters spend part of their lives in red mangiove swamps. The leaves of the mangrove trees, falling into the salt water, are quickly shredded by tiny organisms and converted into protein and carbohydrates, the food supply of other organisms, which in turn are fed upon by the young of our favorite seafood species.

The multimillion-dollar menhaden industry is already beginning to dwindle as a result of the destruction of salt marshes and mangrove swamps along the Atlantic coast, Florida is trying desperately, albeit belatedly, not to let, this bappen to its south and west coasts, and we finally bave Federal water pollution laws requiring -a would-be mangrove swamp destroyer to get a permit.

These laws came about because we recently became aware of the enormous productivity of estuarine waters -twenty times as productive per unit as the open ocean, seven times as productive as an alfalfa field and twice as productive as a corn field. The estuaries plant, fertilize and harvest

Toward Better Cabs To the Editor:

In your piece on "Uncramped Taxis" (Week in Review, June 20) some drivers acknowledge that the big, safe, attractive taxi prototypes displayed at the Museum of Modern Art might attract more riders. Hurrah! Now they know what the riders have known all along: that the standard Dodge taxi, complete with knee-crushing bulletproof partition, is simply unsatisfac-

The Modern's taxi show serves to point out once again the absurd state of affairs in New York City's public transportation, traffic, parking and street problems. Isn't it proper irony that a museum, usually concerned with preserving ideas of the past, is giving us some of the most forwardlooking consideration about transportation in this city?

Tuition Inequity To the Editor:

The decision to impose tuition at CUNY on a supposed parity with that at SUNY leaves at least one inequity that has not, so far, been identified in the press. It is an inequity that hurts the non-city residents of nearby, Westchester, Rockland, and Nassan While residents of any part of New

But now that the state has taken over the lion's share of funding, especially for the CUNY senior colleges and bas accepted the principle of full funding for the CUNY to allow out-of-city residents to attend at the same rate of tuition. Numerous marginal families who cannot afford the $3,000 or more charged by private colleges or the living expenses of upstate SUNY schools could send their children to CUNY if the tuition were made equitable.

What affects one lowly microscopic organism can ultimately affect the highest organism, man. The loss Deltona faces, if the corps' decision isupbeld is peanuts compared to the increase in our grocery bills if we cannot stop additional destruction of our coastal wetlands.

The law says the corps cannot grant a permit to develop a mangrove estu-ary unless such development is in the public interest. The National Audubon Society assisted by the Collier County Conservancy and armed with a great store of indisputable facts, insisted that the corps do its duty. It did.

"these" young people that will come the greater portion of those who will lead and sustain the United States in the year 2000.

Of course it is nonsense to agree with Meredith. We don't need more brains. We have plenty of hrains. We need young men and women imbued with the notion of service, young people prepared to efface peregoisms in larger causes, people prepared to do the drudgework that brings neither lucre nor public recognition, people who can lead because they have been willing to follow, people whose intellectualism is not cynical and overweening, young people who understand that the most overrated decision they shall be called upon to make in their young lives is the decision about where they will go to college. We have plenty of young good minds; we have far fewer tender hearts and brave souls.

Could Picasso ace his math Scholastic Aptitude Test? Could Lincoln recognize the subjunctive voice in Latin? Could Churchill make sense of the differential calculus? Did Martin Luther King know Hopkins from 'Keats? What's the Latin word for parsley?

Colleges exist for two reasons: to make people think better-and this is paramount-but also to give them the experience of living m a shall we say, the Volunteer Army. And nity—an agglomeration of young it is precisely from the ranks of men and women in which the actions of each touch the lives of all. And it is in the latter mission, and the process by which those whose contributions to it, in college and after, might be estimable, that those who have not always made successful obeisance before the bitch-goddess of the College Boards too frequently are flipped to the reject pile on the desks of admissions officers.

Evidence to give patient, unre-warded service to their communities should be a critical element upon which admission to colleges is based. Those whose instinct so dictates will not uncommonly be found to possess brains, and those hrains can be cultivated, and those students can be inspired, and it is those students who will lead and serve this country later: patiently, bonestly, doggedly.

It is among these young people that will, more often than not, be found the George Catlett Marshalls, the Sam Rayburns, the Lincolns, And besides, twenty years after they leave college, they will not be reading the latest silly best-selling nonfiction palaver on "interpersonal relations," but Burke, and Thucydides, and Sterne and Melville. For their education will not have interfered with their learning.

It is not anti-intellectualism to say so. It is plain common sense, which, in the case of our sparkling citadels of what is called higher learning, we have not got. And we'd hetter get it,

The Other Mayor

By William V. Shannon

BOSTON, June 27-This tired city has two mayors. One is U. S. District Judge W. Arthur Garrity Jr. who personally directs the administration of the strife-torn public school system in an effort to carry through his farreaching plan for desegregation and school reform.

The other is Mayor Kevin H. White, the elected chief executive who struggles to prevent this racially tense city from blowing itself up and to find the money to pay for the busing, the extra police, and the administrative costs of Judge Garrity's plan.

Two weeks ago, the Supreme Court refused to review Judge Garrity's handlwork. Legally, this marked the end of a decade of controversy here, for Judge Garrity's 1974 decision was the Federal sequel to eight years of angry but inconclusive dispute between the Boston School Committee and the State of Massachusetts over a 1965 state law on racial balance in the schools. The imponderable now is whether after years of wrangling and, more recently, intermittent violence, the definitive rejection by the Snpreme Court will bring Boston the peace of exhaustion-or a further descent into hellish conflict.

The Garrity plan has created as many problems as it has solved. Between 1972 and 1975, while the number of black pupils held steady at 31,000, the number of white pupils declined from 56,800 to 36,200. Enrollment in September may register a further drop.

The material costs of the racial struggle are evident in the municipal budget, and an anticipated steep increase in the property tax, already about the nation's highest. While spending by all other departments over the last four years rose by only 5 percent, school spending has risen hy 46 percent. Police Department costs also rose because police worked overtime to cope with anti-husing disturbances: 300 state and local police have been stationed in the corridors of South Boston High School and in nearby streets.

The city can ill afford the financial burdens of racial confrontation, Boston is the capital of an economically declining region. Recessions last longer here and recovery is slower. The unemployment rate in Boston is above 11 percent, more than half sgain as high as the national average.

The invisible social costs have been even more devastating. Boston's pride and self-confidence have been damaged. In the 1960's, hope was in the air in Boston, a conviction that the city could meet and master its problems.

One symbol of that hope was the Boston Government Center, one of the nation's most ambitious urban renewal projects. When this huge complex of public and private buildings was completed in 1972, architecture critic Ada Louise Huxtable wrote: "Boston has been brought handsomely -and by and large sensitively-into the skyscraper age."

Another symbol of hope was Mayor White himself. The handsome, articulate scion of a well-known Irish political family and a graduate of Williams College, Kevin White—like John F. Kennedy—is a stylish union. of the old and the new in Boston. Elected Mayor in 1967 at age 38, Mr. White surrounded himself with exceptionally able young aides and tried to bring Boston into the mainstream of modern ideas about municipal govern-

He recruited a police commissioner from St. Louis to revitalize Boston's ingrown Police Department, He opened "little City Halls" to try to improve the delivery of city services to neighborhoods. He brought numerous blacks into public life, so much so that when be ran successfully for re-election in 1971 against Louise Day Hicks, he was known in some quarters as "Mayor Black."

To those who knew his record, it' did not seem unreasonable that Mr. White once entertained the idea of running for national office this year, That dream disappeared in the rancor and futility of the busing struggle.

On the eve of the opening of schools inder the busing plan in September, 1974, Mayor White warned in a telecast, "No man, not even a President. stands above the law. And no city, or group within it, can stand in defiance of the law."

Mayor White has kept the peace and upheld the law. He has also kept open his lines of communication to both the white and black communities, the latter's support providing him with his wafer-thin margin of re-election votes last November. But he has been battered by waves of passion from former supporters who see him as "selling out" to the blacks and from blacks. and suburban liberals who see him as insufficiently zealous for integration.

In fact, he has no authority in school matters yet has to cope with the financial consequences and social turmoil created by the demagoguery of the School Committee and the willful beroics of Judge Garrity. The pressures are wearying but now that the Supreme Court has spoken, Mayor White sees ground for bope that he can in coming months bring this beleaguered city to a renewed sense of itself and of the positive elements in lts situation.

WASHINGTON — We Americans must begin to consider how we will replace the large corporation as the central institution of our economy. In the remaining quarter of the 20th century we will face slower economic growth and increasing limitations of resources. These historically new problems require strategies that are incompatible with an inherent characteristic of an economy dominated by large corporate enterprises: its compulsion toward indiscriminate and resource-using growth. First, in order to avoid the dire social consequences of slower growth. we will need a much more equitable distribution of income and wealth. Second, the sacrifices required by this will in turn require a much greater sense of community, and therefore planning, to achieve a greater stability of community in America. Third, to deal with growing resource limits, we will need new policies for conservation and much more efficient allocation of resources for human priorities.

On all three counts, the modern corporation falls short. The corporation is a device for perpetuating the maidistribution of income and wealth. Despite social programs and a progressive income tax, the distribution of income and wealth in the United States has been virtually unchanged for 40 years-if anything, both have worsened recently: The corporation is a source of constant upheaval and instability in the lives of people who do not belong to it, and many who do. Communities are uprooted, neighborhoods destroyed, tax bases are eroded (and tax rates forced up), and largescale migrations are produced by corporate investment and location decisions made with little reference to the social consequences. Finally, as many observers have pointed out the corporation is inherently an engine based on growth. Its primary and overriding motivation is to stimulate profitable sales and more consumption - regardless of whether the society can afford it.

As we move deeper into the economic difficulties of the final quarter of the century, we will accordingly have to evolve new institutions that emphasize greater, equality, stability, conservation and community. We need to support small-scale, communitycentered businesses that can prosper without explosive growth. We need public control over capital and natural resources, so both can be allocated according to public priorities. To encourage a sense of community, we need local job stabilization, more employee participation in work-place decisions, and much more direct citizen involvement in local economic institutions and in public planningfrom neighborhood to nation. In connection with some larger economic functions, we will need to replace the large corporation with new institutions directly accountable to public priorities.

A mosaic of new ideas, experiments and proposals reflecting these emergent needs is in fact already beginning to develop in America. For example:

 Interest in worker participation in management and even ownership of corporations, once beyond the political pale, is now urged by political figures as far apart as Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Elliot L. Richardson, Senator Russell B. Long and former Senator Fred Harris.

· Consumer cooperatives are growing rapidly in middle-class communi-

 Local community-controlled development corporations that support nonprofit business ownership are expending in bundreds of low-income

• After years of neglect, strong support for local public ownership of land, utilities and even banks has developed in a significant number of state legislatures and city councils. Numerous Senators have supported a federally-owned oil and gas

• Henry S. Reuss, chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee, has proposed Federal allocation of bank credit and the nationalization of a major bank.

• Senator Edward M. Kennedy has introduced legislation providing, under certain circumstances, for a public trust to own some auto firms' subsidiaries that produce mass-transit equip-

The transition to new forms of organization beyond the giant corporation will not occur overnight; nor is it inevitable. The process is enormously complex. And, as observers have pointed out, the corporation itself is evolving. But the stakes are too important to hope somehow the corporate leopard can change its spots. Both the strengths and weaknesses of the corporation are inherent in the species.

APRIL IN PARIS, OR A DAY AT THE HOSPITAL $450.

That could be the price by 1980. If the present trends continue, some hospital stays in the Greater New York area could cost an average of $450 a day by 1980. Certain hospital stays in Manhattan already cost $300 a day. And you can get a packaged week-long trip to Paris for little more:

What is Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Greater New York doing about it? We have a number of programs to help hospitals to attain higher levels of efficiency and contain costs. But another thing we can do is to save that room charge by treating people on an out-patient basis. Such as "Ambulatory Surgery", where a patient has minor surgery and goes home the same day.

For several years now, we've paid more claims for out patients than in-patients. Many of our out-patient benefits were among the first in the country.

And remain among the best. So we not only save room cost, but patients can lead more normal lives at home. How home care saves hospital dollars. Since 1960 we've been showing the whole country how home care benefits can save money and make patients happier. Under our program, a patient can leave the hospital earlier and recuperate at home. Patients get all the medication, equipment, and nursing they need. And they feel better because they're at home with their family and friends.

Getting second opinions on surgery: two heads may be cheaper than one. Would a second specialist's opinion on elective surgery reduce the number of unnecessary

A study cited by Congress indicates it might: board-certified specialists disagreed 17.6% of the time with the original opinion. Thus, while we're not prejudging the results, we're now making second surgical opinion available to "experiencerated" groups as an added benefit. Subscribers in these groups can get an opinion on elective surgery from a second specialist at no cost to themselves. We are hopeful that this program will save surgery, money, and hospital use while improving the quality of health care. The home "kidney machine" lives and saves money. We were the first Blue Cross and Blue Shield plan in the country to offer the new home hemodialysis equipment as one of our benefits. . Since 1972, we have made out-patient hemodialysis treatment plus actual in-home dialysis equipment available as one of our benefits. Kidney sufferers whose conditions are stabilized can now lead nearly normal lives.

And each of them can save about $20,000 a year as well.

Be informed. We need your help. We want you to become interested and informed. Learn what new cost-containment programs are being proposed. Think them over. We need the support of every citizen in our work toward cost

The Major Events of the Day International:

President Ford, at a summit meeting of seven major industrial nations io Puerto Rico, yesterday said that Governments had overcommitted themselves economically in . order to improve social conditions and raise their citizens' standard of living. He told the other leaders in a private session that the industrialized nations must set more "realistic" social and economic goals that would be acceptable to the people of their countries. [Page 1, Columo 1.]

Six armed men, believed to be members of a radical Palestinian group, hijacked an Air France jetliner with more than 257 passengers aboard, incloding at least nine Americans and many Israelis, soon after it took off from Athens for Paris. The pilot was forced to fly to Benghazi, Libya, and after reflecting the plane then flew to Entebbe Airport in Uganda. Air France officials said the plane had only enough fuel to last 20 minutes when it was forced to land. The flight originated in Tel Aviv. [1:2-4.]

Beirut's amport, which was reopened late last week, was closed again indefinitely when artillery blasted a Middle East Airlines 707 jet liner that had arrived from Jordan with a three-man crew but no passengers. A half dozen shells fell in and around the airport. The pleoe burned to its frame. Its first officer and flight eogineer were injured and the pilot was believed to have been killed. The engineer was said to be an American but was not identified. The terminal building was crowded with bundreds of people waiting for flights out of the country. its roof was struck by a shell, but no one inside was said to have been injured. [1:5.]

The Portuguese turned out in large mm-bers in the Presidential election and most, according to early returns, voted for Gen. António Ramalho Eanes, a law-and-order candidate, dealing the Communist Party a severe setback. General Eanes had the backing of Portugal's three largest con-Communist parties, as well as several leftist groups. The Communist Party's candidate, Octavio Pato, was running io fourth place. [1:8.]

"The agents involved were extremely careful to make these contacts in such e manner as not to embarrass the F.B.I.," a recommendation said. The six agents were praised for "constant alertness, swift reaction, sound judgment and great discretion." [14:3-6.] Republican mayors, many from smaller cities, at the 44th annual meeting of the United States Conference of Mayors in Milwankee, joined Democratic mayors in urging President Ford out to veto the $4 billion public works bill sent to him by Congress last week. The hill, the Public Works Employment Act of 1976, is considered crucial many big-city mayors facing serious budget problems. President Ford earlier this year vetoed a similar bill he said was inflationary. Another veto, it was apparent at the meeting, would not be politically advanta-geous for the President, [1:7.] Metropolitan

The State Assembly early yesterday passed its version of a pension bill-by a vote of 120 to 29—that would sharply reduce benefits for future public employees, effective July I. These employees would be required to contribute 3 percent of their salaries to their pension plans. On retirement, one-half of an employee's Social Security benefit would be deducted from his public pension. The employees would also be eligible for annual cost-of-living increase in their bene-fits of up to 3 percent. Meanwhile, a partisan impasse continued over a section of the pension bill dealing with the structure of the pension study commission, with the Senate withholding approval of the Assembly's proposal for a 14-member commission that would replace the present five members. Q. Where does the city stand in the task of eliminating its deficit?

A. There is some difference of opinion, but city officials say they have cut what amounts to the first $200 mil-lion of the $1 billion deficit must be eliminated by mid-1978 Layoffs, reduction ef city services and the shrinkage of subsidies, such as the city's support of the City University, went into that effort. About $800 mil-lion remains to be cut in the next two years, and under the latest plan — a tightened version of the Mayor's program—this coming year will see most of these remaining austerity measures intro-

O. Will all this solve the city's problems? A. Hardly. But if the city lives up to the terms of these cuts, it will continue to re-ceive the $2.3 billion in annual Federal loans that it needs to meet its bills in the next two years and avoid default and bankruptcy. Beyoud this, the goal is to ex-hibit such believable reform and austerity that outside investors will once again consider it safe to let the city return to the bond market. But this is far from certain right now, with most of the cuts still to be attempted and other financial problems remaining to be solved.

Q. Is the city better off now financially than it was 2 Year 220?

A. It has to be, because things were so bad then and because now the city has beguin to try to introduce a modern accounting and management system capable of accurately tracking the pay-roll as well as the income and the outgo of moneysomething it was never really able to do. It has also accomplished 'suc'b indisputable economies as the dismissal of more than 20,000 city workers in the last two years as well as the closing of about 25,000 additional jobs through attrition.

Q. And are we past that ageful period of chronic

A. Not really. The austerwoven, because of the paucity: of resources, that scrapes with deadlines are inevitable. On Friday, for example, the city needs $1.1 billion of the new budget year's Federal loans, but Treasury officials say the city will get the money only if austere new labor agreements have been reached with the municipal unions.

for a week.

With labor facing a wage-freeze mandate, such agreements are not yet settled.

Q. And if the loan is held

A. Fiscal experts say bankruptcy will occur, because various obligations, such as the city payroll and the debt-service needs of several bundred million dollars, could not be met. This would be the very event that the threeyear austerity plan was designed to avoid. Some informed participants feel the unions, which have invested millions in pension funds to keep the city solvent, bave to cooperate because bankruptcy would be counter to their self-interest. But others cau-tion that the unions have been pushed hard by austerity measures and could become unpredictable: Q. What are some of the other uncertainties? A. The duration of the plan itself is uncertain in the view of a number of experts who feel the city needs more than three years to do the full job. But the Mayor and the Governor have no choice but to live within the three-year framework especially since there is no sign of the extra financing — more Federal loans for example — that would be needed to carry the budget-balancing plan into additional years. Within the plan itself, critics cite uncertainties: how to control such semi-independent uoits as the schools and hospitals, how to raise cash -perhaps bundreds of millions of dollars—that may be needed for short-range financing, how to prevent "slippage" — an accumulation of austerity steps that fall short of target. of target.

The city is preparing $135 million in extra cuts to be used as needed to patch the new budget year's initial goal of cutting $379 million from the deficit. The city will also great up the following year's speed up the following year's plan for $442 million in cuts.

More pressing, bowever, is the confrontation over the Legislature's decision, which is opposed by the Governor and the Mayor, to order the city to change the austerity plan and pay more than $100 million more for education than the city intended. The city is fighting the mandate, but if it loses, more cuts will have to be made in police, fire and other vital agencies, according to the

The most depressing uncertainty of all, in the view of many officials, is the failure of the city's economy to rebound from the recession the way the national economy has been recovering. This grim condition presses the city in two ways: It depresses revenue sources, and it forces more residents onto welfare, one .of the costly items the city is committed to bolding down in the austerity program.

Q. Have the Governor and the Mayor largely set-

A. For now they bave, But there will undoubtedly be further dispute over a number of points in the austerity plan. For example, the Mayor continues to insist on the state's takeover next year of the $127 million annual cost of the city courts and probation services. But the Governor and legislative leaders say they do not have the money for that kind of aid.

So, early next winter, the city will likely be forced to plan still more cuts to cover the $127 million deficit. Citystate friction could mark the

Beyond this, the nature of new cuts will undoubtedly be a matter of controversy, with different factions, such as Federal authorities or Control Board members, pushing for different things, such as a retraction of union fringe benefits and pension benefits and large-scale management reform of city

Q. How deeply can the city government be cut and still maintain services at an acceptable level? A. This is not cear yet, although some politicians contend that fiscal salvation aiready is not worth the cost in lost services. Some observers feel the point of no re-turn is already visible in the area of payroll cuts. The city. under the emergency austerity law, relies on attrition rather than on layoffs when-ever possible. But Federal ac-countaints recently observed that while attrition has been running high — 7,000 jobs were closed out from December to April — a new problem is the need to start paying some remaining workers more overtima in order to maintain minimum rervice levels. So the resulting savings drop.

Even so, city officials will continue to rely on high at-trition, with no renewal of massive layoffs contemplated as yet, and even a bit of bir-ing planned for some agencies ravaged by attrition. The $442 million in third-year cuts have not been detailed and if more layoffs will be needed, this would hardly be the time to broach thet subject, in the midst of crucial labor-contract nego-

Q. So what are the worst and best judgments lately of the city's effort? A. Some of the kindest words have come from the Federal Government, more particularly the city's one-time antagonist, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, who now has a direct loan investment in the city. His office has complimented the city effort several times. Old associates from his Wall Street days say Mr. Simon knows well the need of a confidence mentality to protect investments.

The most harmful judgment has come from Moody's Investor Service, the bond rating concern, which recent-ly dropped its rating of some Municipal Assistance Corporation bonds three notches and sharply criticized the city ef-fort. The move came just as the M.A.C., the city's financing agency, was again tack-ling the problem of $1 bil-lion in overdue city notes for which the city had no money to pay the principal. The M.A.C. is offering these investors the choice of accepting long-term bonds rather than just remaining with their principal in default on a state-declared 'moratorium." M.A.C. officials say the rating drop is totally unfair. But unless the $1 billion in unpaid notes is cleared up, the goal of regaining entry to the borrowing market, even with the best of austerity plans, will remain uncer-

The Council of Superviall ethnic surveys whether conducted by a city, state or Federal agency, asserts that such inquiries violate constitutional principles and are "alhorrent." "obnoxious," "divinite." "althorrent," "obnoxious," "divisive," and an invasion of privacy.

"We are standing on what we believe to be a moral principle," says Peter S. O'Brien, the president of the supervisors' union. "If parents want their children to be racially or ethnically earmarked, they are the ones—and the only ones—who have the right to make this decision. To do otherwise would be to invade the privacy and violate the civil rights of all concerned." 'Open to Abuse'

Despite the supposed safe-guards, Mr. O'Brien adds, "ethnic earmarking is open to abuse and exploitation by bigots and racists." He mentions Nazi Germany Biafra and Lebanon as examples of the horrors that come from labeling or categorizing people by race or religion. A dominant concern in connection with staff ethnic surveys is that the data could lead to the establishment of personnel practices that involve racial quota systems.

This is a very sensitive point among those city school people who are critical of government affirmative-action programs or feel that decentralized school practices here have opened the door to discriminatory personnel pol-

In addition to this, there is the complaint—voiced by the city's Board of Education -that the comprehensive special Federal survey places too much of a burden on the system in terms of time and money. The board says that the elementary-school quesdays to complete and that the junior and senior high school form requires five man-days.

For the Surveys

The agencies that require the surveys defend them asimportant instruments for obtaining vital information. Leonard Powell, of the New York State Education Department, says that the data it obtains help pinpoint racially isolated schools or districts so that corrective actions can be taken, and that they also provide information neces sary for planning purposes and policy decisions. Without the ethnic data,

Loss of 3 Programs Adding Young inmates-Malcolm Fears 'Breaking Point'

By ROBERT E. TOMASSON New York City's [21] population has risen sharply in the last few weeks, apparently because of the termination of three programs aimed at keeping younger persons charged with lesser crimes out of the institutions, according to the Department of Correction.

At a time of the year when the inmate population has customarily gone down or remained the same before the eak months in late summer, the number of prisoners has gone up, causing apprehension among correction officials.

"If the rate of increase continues, we will be at the breaking point in two weeks," said Correction Commissioner Benjamin J. Malcolm.

Texas Cattle Auction As Big as the Ritz

DALLAS, June 27 — Joe Bachmuth grew up in a Manhattan apartment, made a fortune in children's clothing and gets his kicks playing

"Horse people are sneaky," he said. "These people, cattle people, are down-to-earth, real folks."

John Connally, the former Texas Governor, sounding a hit like he had gargled with snake oil, was providing Howard Cosell-style color commeotary.

"She's deep, she's thick, she's feminine, she's smooth," he said, describing Lucy, a pregnant heifer from Arkaosas. Turning to a Donald Put-nam paioting, he said, "Look at the drama, the use of Greer Garson, pointing to

A lot of tycoons, tax-shelter ranchers, aspiring cowhoys, real cowboys, and Mr. Connally got together last night, uoder the chandeliers in the Adolphus Hotel's grand ballroom.

Joe Marchman, e Dallas real estate magnate, decided that it was about time that breeders of Santa Gertrudis cattle came out of the closet and showed the world that they had some class, as well as a lot of money. Every cattle breed has had its ballroom auction, so he went a step further. Instead of running the cattle in and out from the parking lot — a somewhat pedestrian gimmick attribut-ed to Hereford and Angus hreeders — Mr. Marchman housed some 40 tons of beef on the hoof in the hotel's ornete Regeocy Room, surrounded them with a fortune in Western paintings and sculptures, hastily acquired $2 million in liability insurance from Lloyds of London (American insurance com-panies wouldn't touch it), and said some prayers.

Then be and Bill Burford, a Dallas art dealer, invited some 600 be-monied guests from the United States and a dozen other countries, includ-ing South Africa, to show up tuxedoes and evening gowns, mingle, drink, eat, and most importantly, bny.

Mr. Bowie of West Point, Georgia, began the evening with political overtones, pre-senting his sidekick, Mr. Con-nally, with a bag of Georgia peanuts. To which the Texas Rapuhlican respondeci:

"Jimmy Carter's father hrought all the boys in once and said, O.K., I want to know which one of you cut down that peannt vine, And little little from the carter of the ca little Jimmy stood up and said, 'Father, like George Washington, I cannot tell a lie. I did—and I didn't." Santa Gertrudis cattle, incidentally, were developed on the famous King Ranch, in South Texas, in the early 1900's. They are a combina-tion of three-eighths Brahman from India and five-eighths sborthorn from England, genetically designed to survive beat, insects and scruffy grazing areas and still grow fast and reproduce

It was the men who dressed loudly, many of them with pointy boots sticking out from under and assortment of tuxedos ranging in color from black to hurgundy and baby blue. It was a slow day at the Save a Mar-riage office on Central Park West re-cently. (Dr. Singer says the service has no money fur advertising and people learn of it through word of mouth or press publicity.) Rosalind Frey, a psychotherapist who works at the Alfred Adler Mental Hygiene Clinic, took the first call first call.

"You have to tune in on the individual without the usual visual clues." Dr.

Singer said. Recently the organization did a small sampling of callers who did not object to being called back. It found, that 80-1 percent said they'd been helped. Still the problem of failing marriages is enormous.

"But even a small chink of lights helps." Dr. Singer said optimistically.

Meanwhile, Back on Dry Land ...

Frying under a merciless sun on the deck of a lifeless sailing ship drifting in the horse latitudes is not necessarily the ultimate in gracious living. Yet it has its compensations, While the stately queens in Operation Snail '76 lay becalmed last week in their "race" from Bermuda to Newport, R. I., the men aboard were spared watching Muhammad Ali and Antonio Inoki on closed-circuit television. That was a privilege not accorded to everyone. Moreover, due to a distinct shortage of printing presses in the empti-ness of the Bermuda Triangle, not one word was published there about the historic lover's quarrel between Charlie Finley of the Oakland A's and Bowie Kuhn, tha earthly vicar of Abner Doubleday. In short, though the pace of the sailboat race left something to be desired, the peace was blessed.

Back now on dry land—which, happily, is not so dry as the Coast Guard Academy's otherwise lovely training ship Eagle—one realizes that an obvious solution to baseball's teapot tempest would be to rush Gene LeBell home from Tokyo to mediate tha Finley-Kuhn differences. Or, if that didn't work, perhaps Reggie Jackson would renew his offer to take the A's off Finley's bands.

LeBell is the Hollywood stundman who, as referee, called the Ali-Inoki charade a draw. This was the politest thing it could be called, and it established LeBell as a magistrate of Solomonic kidney, answering all questions except where Bob Arum would get the $9 million in purses he said he had promised the principals. Arum is the same wonderful promoter who brought us that $6 million extravaganza, Evel Knievel vs. the Snake River Canyon, at

Chicken Charlie

The fact that Jackson and a friend named Gary Walker had tried to buy the A's came out in a transcript of testimony taken by Kuhn after Finley had sold Vida Blue, Joe Rudi and Rollie Fingers. If they had succeeded it would have resolved all disputes, for Jackson and Walker wanted the whola Oakland club, not just remnants. They would welcome Kuhn's order returning Blue, Rudi and Fingers to the team and Jackson, getting his freedom from Baltimore, would have resumed his place in the Oakland outfield.

Even greater benefits would have accrued if Jackson and Walker could have made the deal, and that's one rea-son it didn't go through. Baseball would have been rid of Finley, as basketball and hockey are rid of him. It was too much to ask.

Nevertheless, there were lindications yesterday that Charlie might not be long for this game. Faced with the threat of a strike by his players unless he permitted Rudi, Blue and Fingers to play with the A's, he chickened out and agreed to let Chuck Tanner use his repatriated exiles. 77, Column 1 Charlie has backed down before, but not often. If his own

players and the Commissioner beat him this time chances

When Kuhn refused to approve the $3.5 million sale of Bhie. Rudi and Fingers and ordered the men back to Oakland, Finley refused to let them play on the ground that they were the property of the Yankees and Red Sox, that the New York and Boston clubs could sue if he used their property, and that he would be liable if one of them got

He filed a $10 million damage suit against Kuhn and made sounds of brave defiance until his own players turned against him. Then he surrendered, explaining lamely that he was lifting his ban on the three players only because all American League clubs had agreed not to protest their use by Oakland. The statement may have comforted Charlie, but it saved him no face. It seems likely that having backed down this far, be will retire from the field altogether and let Kuhn score his first significant victory in almost eight years as commissioner.

Blue Tomorrows

It looks as though Charlie's surrender to his players enabled him to beat another rap. Dick Moss, attorney for the players' union, had notified him that his refusal to restore Rudi, Blue and Fingers to the Oakland squad violated their contracts as his employees, and if he didn't do something about it they would become free agents in 10 days. He did something about it.

That doesn't mean, however, that Finley's capitulation settled all legal problems. He can drop bis suit against Kuhn, of course, and maybe the Yankees and Red Sox won't take him to court. But what about the three players involved? Rodi and Fingers still haven't signed a contract for 1976 and can become free agents in October, but not Vida has bated Finley's guts since the spring of 1972. For more than four years he has yearned to get away from the egomaniac who owned him. That was why he was playing out his option this summer, and he signed a threeyear contract recently only to facilitate his transfer to the Yankees. Is Kuhn going to tell him now that be is bound to Finley for the next three years? If Kuhn does tout to this kid, can Bowie ever look in the mirror again?

There is an ironic aspect of the Oakland players' strike threat. They didn't consider striking when Finley traded away Jackson and Ken Holtzman. They did not rebel when Finley sold Blue, Rudi and Fingers. They were accustomed to outrageous behavior by their boss and were prepared to go on losing games and drawing their wages. But when Blue, Rudi and Fingers became available again, the others insisted that they be used.

In thet respect, the players preempted the authority of owner and manager. They told Chuck Tanner "you will make up the lineup card with the following names on it, or we quit" That has never happened before, it will have

Phils Defeat Cardinals, 6-2, With Boone's Grand Slam

Bob Boone, who started the season with only 16 home runs in his four years with the Philadelphia Phillies, hit his third homer of this season yesterday, and it was a blg one: a grand slam that capped a six-run fourth inning in a 6-2 victory over the visiting St. Louis Cardinals.

Boone's first career grand slam enabled Jim Lonborg to join Randy Jones of the San Diego Padres as the first two pitchers in the majors to win 10 games this season. Jones, antearly candidate for the Cy Young Award, which. Lonborg won in 1967 with Boston in the American League, has 13 victories and 3 defeats so far. Lonborg's record is Lonborg needed help from Ron Reed in getting that 10th victory. He was lifted with two out and the bases loaded in the sixth, and Reed came on to end the threat by strik-ing out Mike Tyson, then blanked the Cardinals the rest of the way.

The Cards scored first with one out in the fourth. Lou Brock extended his hitting streak to 14 games with a single to right, stole second and scored on Ted Simmons's single. In the sixth, two hits, two walks and a wild pitch got them their second run be-fore Lonborg left.

Philadelphia's rally in the fourth marked the 19th time in 67 games this season that the Phils, the leaders in the National League East, have batted around. This time they sent 10 batters to the plate in scoring their six runs.

Dave Cash's single started it, and a walk to Mike Schmidt and Greg Luzinski's run-scoring single tied the game. Dick Allen's sacrifice fly then gave the Phils a 2-1 lead. Jay Johnstone followed with a ground-rule double and Garry Maddox was hit with a pitch to load the bases and set up Boone's heroics.

It also snapped a five-game winning streak by Andy Messersmith and dropped his record to 7-6. After giving up two runs in the fourth, during which he committed an error on a sacrifice bunt and threw a wild pitch, Mess-ersmith tied the game with a two-run single in the fifth.

Dodgers 12, Giants 8 AT LOS ANGELES—Bobby Murcer drove in four runs with his eighth and nioth home runs of the season and Gary Matthews hit his 10th homer, but all that was not enough to overcome a 16-hit Dodger attack. A single by Ellie Rodriguez and another by Manny Mota, the 100th pinch-hit of Mota's career, drove in two Dodger runs in the fifth to break a 6-6 tie. Los Angeles added three in the eighth, two on a bases-loaded single by Lee Lacy.

Yet, the handsome chestret, the handsome chest-nut gelding didn't give up at the end. It was just that Logical, carrying only 108 pounds, encluding Patrick Day, closed strongly from off the turn and went on to win by 21/2 lengths. The time of 1:21 1/5 was only four-fifths off the track mark

After Logical won the Assault to return $14.40 for a $2 straight bet, his owner, Russell L. Reineman, collected the winner's share of $26,115, as well as a souvenir from Warren Mehrtens, the jockey who rode Assault to the Triple Crown in 1946.
American History was third behind the 9-5 second choice. Queen City Lad, the favorite, was fourth, and Proud and Bold was last.

Rea had never flown be-fore coming from the mid-west for this trip. He is small and frail, so short that Wieland had to help him reach the strap under the colt's saddle. This was only Mariuel's Troy's third defeat in 16 starts. He had captured his last two starts by a total of 14 lengths, including a track mark for six furlongs at Hawthorne.

Saturday's second-fastest workout was turned in hy Proud and Bold, whose 69-year-old trainer-owner, Robert van Worp, wasn't un-

"Maybe the time will help him, maybe it will hurt him. You never know," he said. "I'm handling him myself," said vao Worp, "because I can't find a trainer I'm happy with. My wife wants me to quit and stay home in Tampa. She thinks I'm getting old and rickety. Maybe I am. Except when I win."

ogical, carrying only 108
ounds, including Patrick lay, closed strongly from off fast pace.

Wins N.J. Jump Prize

PISCATAWAY, N.J., June 27—Allegro, owned hy Vincent Murphy and ridden hy Norman dello Joio, was both speedy and sure-footed today, and the combination earned him first place in the jumper special at the Middlesex horse show.

The special, with $2,000 added, was the closing day feature of the four-day show at Johnson Park. Sharrar, handled by Mrs. Mary Chapot—who also was voted the leading jumper rider—was second. Then came Wile E. Coyote, belonging to the Foxbrook Farm of Unionville, Pa., and piloted by Joy

Slater. Slater.

Eight horses managed to go clean in the first round of the special, but only three were faultless in the jumpoff. Allegro, a 6-year-old bay gelding, was caught in 47.23 seconds.

Sharrar, also clean, was timed in 56.28 while Wile E. Coyote finished third. Atticus, owned by Harry Damon, won the amateurowner jumper title, and Jack Benson's Toy Commander took the junior jumper

'In' Theme Adopted for Scotch

What could be more en-dearing in this highly charged legalistic and consumerist atmosphere than a meaningful, meaningless ad-vertising theme that seems to be saying something while saying nothing? Lois, Holland, Callaway appears to have made just such a contribution to Inver House Scotch, which replaced Cutty Sark Scotch on its client list. The product claim in this campaign is that Inver House is "in" in various citles. is "in" in various citles. What does this mean? That the smart set is drinking it?

There are nine cities fea-tured in the campaign so far with the headline reading, "Inver's in in Moscow" (or wherever). And, says the copy, "Moscow is now drink-ing what New York, Paris, Miami, Rome, San Francisco and Chicago are drinking."

Each ad ends with "Inver House, the international Scotch, shall be America's next No. 1 Scotch." That's no claim—that's a promise. A pretty good promise for the No. 6 brand with annual sales of some 800,000 cases, compared with No. 1 J&B's 2.4 million.

But George Lois chairman of the agency, and Theodore D. Veru, president of Publicker Distillers Products, which markets the Scotch, insist that the potential is really there. really there.

They said the other morn-ing that the brand was strong in the Southeast, where it was introduced about 14 years ago, and that it has plenty of room to grow in the really big Scotch-drink-ing areas—the East and West Coasts.

Besides, they think that this "soft as a kiss" whisky distilled by the parent com-pany, Publicker Industries is priced just right for most of its target audience, just below the premium brands but higher than the others that, like itself, are bottled in this country.

The campaign does have grabbing graphics, Io each ad large-size bottle of Inver House becomes a part of the skyline of the city in ques-tion. Eye-catching.

Between the campaign's launch in August and the end of the year, Mr. Veru says, the $2.5 million will be spent for advertising. The agency, in a film prepared for distributor pep rallies, promises that Inver House will bave as much advertising as any competitor. Fewer magazines will be utilized than during the last campaign, when the account was at J. Walter Thompson, but the frequency of inser-

Where would you bold a meeting for a group of people that is completely dedicated to analyzing, servicing and selling the life style of America's apartment dwellers?

Acapulco? Boca Raton? The Greenbrier? No. You take them to little old New York and saturate them, inundate them and inculcate them in their area of interest. That's just what the Meredith Corporation did last week with the gang from Apartment Life, the publica-tion that started as an annual in 1969, went to a quarterly the next year and to a bi-monthly in 1973.

And the high point of high points at the week-long meeting was the Friday announcement that, as of March, Apartment Life is going monthly.

"Today," said Harry Myers, the publisher, in advance of the meeting, "we announce that we are no longer a publication but a magazine." This must be a matter of semantics.

The periodical will be in-creasing its rate base from 750,000 to 800,000. It also has a new associate pub-lisher and ad director—Max Madsen and Mike Fitzgerald. Apartment Life aims itself

Been Increasing Prices Slowly By STEVEN RATTNER JERSEY CITY, June 27 -"We're oot breaking any rec-ords, but we're doing fine," Jim Deluna, the oweer of San-Dee's Firestooe, was say-ing as he stood in the withering June beat watching his employees roll out new tires to waiting cars. Today 70,000 rubber workers across the country bave been on strike 66 days. But for Mr. DeLuna, surveying a spacious abowroom packed with new tires as the beavy summer driving begins, it's been "business as usual."

The major effect of the strike is that "I don't have the quality I'd like but I can still get just about everything I need," commented the youthful entrepreneur, who sported a T-shirt emblazoned with the San-Dee logotype. Judging from a sampling of tire dealers, Mr. DeLuna's

Overemphasis on Soviet Purchasing

By H. J. MAIDENBERG

Ever since the Soviet Union bought a record 19 million metric tons of grains and soybeans here in 1972, Moscow's crop reports have tended to dominate the ac-tions of the less-sophisticated speculators in the commodity futures markets for these basic foodstuffs.

The reason is ohvious. The 1972 Soviet grain deal wiped out North American grain surpluses, brought worldwide supply and demand into balance and caused futures prices for wheat, com and soybeans to jump as high as 400 percent the following

What is less obvious, ac-cording to commodity brokers and Midwest grain spe-cialists, is that the Soviet Umon today purchases less than 25 percent of the na-tion's exports in basic food-

The small speculator's pre-occupation with Soviet crop reports was apparent last week in a typical pattern of trading that one top profes-sional trader termed "hilari-

It began last Wednesday

following an overnight report by the Agriculture Depart-ment that put Moscow's grain harvest prospects this year at 190 million metric tons, compared with 140 million in 1975. Moscow's target was 205 million tons. This produced a wave of selling, which was converted into near-panic buying the following day, Thursday, after a rumor swept the market that the Central Intelligence Agency had estimated the So-viet grain harvest at 175 million tons.

As several large commercial traders observed last Friday, one does not have to be a C.L.A. operative to know that the Soviet Union traditionally loses 5 to 10 percent of its crops because of inadequate transport, drying and storage facilities.

In any case, the Government report indicated that Moscow would buy 16.5 mil-lion tons of grain here in the 1975-76 season, making these purchases less than those in Less publicized last week, grain specialists pointed out, was the effect of the sixmonth drought on Western European grain production. Last fall, the Western Europeans were expected to export 25 million tons of grains this year, a fifth of their normal output. Now it is doubtful that any appreciable grain will be left this fall for export.

French exporters were reportedly filling orders from Argentine and North American sources last week to help their overseas and neighboring customers from being caught short later this year.

Because rising populations and living standards increase the worldwide demand for grain by ahout 5 percent a year, any shortfall in output anywhere eventually leads buyers to the United States and Canada, the most dependable sources of grains.

The United States accounts for half the exportable grains in the world market and 90 percent of the increase in global trade since 1972. Canada normally exports a fourth as much as the United States does.

Recent Government crop forecasts indicate that the nation should again be able to export 81 million tons of its total grain output of 242 million tons this year.

Thus, the participants in the grain and soybean futures trade have a good idea of what the basic supply sitnation is today. The question facing them is demand—and election-year politics.

For example, last October when President Ford signed a five-year pact to permit the Soviet Union to huy 6 to 8 million tons of grain a year from next Oct. I, many consumer groups attacked the Administration because they feared the deal would raise Between July and October 1975, pressures by labor and other groups caused an embargo on grain sales to the Soviet Union, which then bought elsewhere.

Recently Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz indicated that the nation could easily permit the Soviet Union to buy more than 8 million tons of grain after the pact takes effect Oct. I. Indeed, if there had not limits on the Soviet grain deal last October could have easily been doubled. As one leading grain exporting company official noted last week:

That was the advice Lauren E. Miller, personnel manager at the John Deere Company's Horico, Wis., works, gave the subcommittee on manpower

The service, Mr. Miller testified, was "most effective at filling low-skill lobs; with effectiveness decreasing the skill level increases." Carl Forster, personnel and radials if they plan to keep the car indefinitely and to buy inexpensive four-ply tires if they plan to sell it.

A more pressing problem that the tire retailers face is the fact that the outlook for "These days people are buying something really cheap or their business is not strong. Radial tires are increasingly something really expensive," offered as original equipment on United States-made cars. said Sol Schulman of the M&M Tire Service Company in Irvington, N. J. "In past years they aimed more at the middle prices."

On the plus side, tha tire retailing business is increasingly dominated by tire stores (rather than gas stations), including a large number of manufacturer-owned stores, such as Firestone's 1,400. Surprisingly, independent dealers don't seem to mind competition from their sup-pliers stores. If I have to have competition in the neighborhood, I'd rather have company-owned stores," Mr. Deluna said. "Company stores have rigid policies, and I can undersell them."

TOOL ORDERS UP, Personal Finance: Insurance of Savings and Loans

Almost half of the associations that do not have Federal insurance are in four states where insurance systems have been created. And while some of these systems may be affilieted with a state government or have regulatory functions, none is backed by the full faith and

The oldest of these is the Cooperative Central Bank in Massachusetts, formed more than four dacades ago to provide e share insurance fund bank associations there. All of the Massachusetts-chartered associations must be members of the ceotral bank, which advertises that it insures deposit accounts in full. The three other agencies exist in Maryland, Ohio and North Carolina. They were organized during the 1960's, following tha public disclosinsurance, to offer greater protection to depositors. Privetely insured associations still exist and many are apparently operating successfully. It was the insolvency of a privately insured Mississippi S.&L.—tha Bankers Trust Savings and Loan Association, which is unrelated to the Bankers Trust Company in the panic in that state. An exception is the well-fioanced Eastman Savings and Loan Association of Rochester, founded in 1921 to serve the employees of the Eastman Kodak Company and now listing assets of more than $250 million. Eastman is one of only five associetions in New York State that are not Federally insured. The 134 Federally insured associations in the state have assets of nearly $19 billion, while the others have only approximately $260 million in as-sets. And if a bill voted last week by the Assembly — requiring that all New York associations become members of the Federal insurance corporation—also is enacted by the Senate, even these in-stitutiona will have to join.

Wby are soma associations not members of the Federal agency? One reason may be tha cost—an annual payment of 1/12 of 1 percent of the savings in the institution. But many of the state in-surance fueds charge at least that amount and the Americao Savings Insurance Company has e premium of

TRIAL OF HARRISES | • ENTERING 2D WEEK

Still No Jurors as the Case Slows Over Questioning on Pretrial Publicity

By MARCIA CHAMBERS

Aprotal to The New York Times LOS ANGELES, June 27-As the trial of William and Emily Harris moves into its second week tomorrow, not one juros has been sworn in the state's kidnapping, assault and rob-bery case against the two members of the self-styled Symbionese Liberation Army.

Indeed, the prosecutor is yet to take his turn to question the 12 prospective jurors so far placed in the jury box about their views on any subject but pretrial publicity. Nor has ei-ther side exercised its 40 peremptory challenges. Perempto-ries permit lawyers to excuse a juror without explanatioo.

The reason for the slow pace lies in the nature of the case, the procedures used in trying to find fair jurors and the lee-way given the Harrises—lee-way the defense team thinks is limited—to explore juror's of the Harrises and their co-defendant, Patricia Hearst, who is not on trial with her former S.L.A. comrades.

Candor Sometimes Lacking

There are also hidden realities in the process of selecting a jury that have slowed the Har-ris trial. Few citizens will coocede that they are not qualified to serve. And some citizeos may be less than candid in an haring a well-publicized case.

Mr. Harris, who has quarreled with Superior Court Judge Niark Brandler over jury selections procedures last week retions procedures, last week re-minded the judge of these real-

"My impression of what I see," he said, "is we have a lot of people that are really dving to get on this jury. Who wants to sit io here and get wants to sit in here and get $5 a day when they could be making a living or doing something else? Here we're right to the middle of the summer. It's 1976. People are making big plans for their vacation and we've got people here dying to sit on this thing.

"I think that what we have here are people trying to get on the jury because maybe, maybe it's something to do. You know, it's a big case. But that is not fair. It is not right for them not to tell the truth, for them not to tell the truth to not talk about their deepes old, is acting as his own attorney. Arguing outside the presence of the jury, he fought to allow the defense to cootinue to questioo 10 ;potential jurors, with the other potential jurors absent, about the effects of pretrial publicity.

The defense has taken more than one hour on the first two orospective jurors, and Judge Braodler has indicated that he minutes for each prospect. The reason for much of the publicity is the S.L.A.'s kidnappining of Miss Hearst, of the pub-lishing family, her cooversion to the group and her recent bank robbery trial, in which she was convicted. Although those associated with this trial say she will not be called as a wit-ness, her relationship with the Harrses will be an important factor io the trial.

At issue is just how far Judge Brandler intends to go in dis-missing a juror for cause—that is, for bias, Unlike the peremptories, there is no limit on dismissals for cause.

Judge Brandler has said that when the time comes he will be

"liberal" in dismissing for cause. Both sides have tried to determine what the judge means by "liberal," particularly since none of the six men and six women who will be in the jury box tomorrow have conceded bias.

The law does not require pro-spective jurors to be ignorant of the cases they hear, and it does not forbid impaneling a juror who has a preconception

It requires only that the juror promise to set aside his views and decide the case on the evi-dence and the judge's instructions oo the law. Ooe prospective juror questioned for 11 minutes by the prosecutor last week said he could promise

What concerns the defense is that some jurers may not be disclosing views that might affect a vote on the fate of the Harrises, who, if convicted, could be senteoced to life prison terms.

The Citizens Committee for New York City yesterday called for 1,000 volunteers to help staff small and large summer youth programs throughout the city, including sports, recreation, arts and crafts, music and dance programs.

The committee's executive director, Dennis Allen, said that cutbacks in public funds and summer jobs would leave more than the usual number of youths with little to do this summer unless volunteers came forward to work with them.

The volunteer program of the committee was started in cooperation with the Mayor's Voluntary Action Center. New Yorkers wishing to take part in it were asked to call 566-5954.

'Village' Youth Project: Bridge Flag Falls Victim Learning Artisan Skills

By BARBARA CAMPBELL

Some teen-agers in the West and East Village spend their free time hanging out together in local parks and playgrounds. They bave "very little structured activity and little guidance," according to a West Village artist, William Leicht.

Mr. Leicht and a small group of volunteers think some of that idle time could be better spent in an artisans' training program.

Sitting in his large studio at Westbeth, the artists' housing complex on Bank and West Streets, Mr. Leicht said that he bad been working since March to set up a program to involve youths in the city in what he calls

What he came up with was a program called Urban Youth/Environment, which be managed to get financed by New York Cilty and by the Kaplan Fund. The project hopes to offer an opportunity for teen-agers interested in learning such skills as carpentry, concrete construction and mural painting, and it is still looking for adult volunteers to teach these skills.

Mr. Leicht was able to obtain city antipoverty funds to pay a weekly stipend to 40 young people, although he was restricted in choosing the teen agers, he said, by the city antipoverty guidelines on family income.

The 40 teen agers who qualified were chosen from applicants who heard about the program from their high chool art departments. Ten other teen-agers whose fam ilies are not at the poverty level, and who therefore could not receive the stipend, volunteered anyway.

The majority of the young people chosen for the eight-week program, which begins July 6, come from lower Manhattan, Mr. Leicht said.

Manhattan, Mr. Leicht said.

However, Mr. Leicht says he wants local teen-agers who did not qualify for the stipend to volunteer for the project, which will include designing an entrance to Pier 49 at Bank Street, constructing it in ferroconcrete and decorating it, and designing and huilding a decorative wall for a playpark on East Ninth Street at Avenue C. When actual construction begins, he says, "We'll need hands." Mr. Leicht says he will need as many young people as he can get between July 12 and 20 to work at the Bank Street pier and between July 20 and Aug. 16 on East Ninth Street.

on East Ninth Street.

Mr. Leicht and Peter Shalleck, the managing director of Westbeth, are concerned about what they believe is an erroneous assumption by some West Village residents that local young people who congregate together are members of "gangs."

"Some of the kids do need adult guidance and something to do, but they are not had kids," said Mr. Shalleck, who was instrumental in getting the Kaplan Fund Inc.

who was instrumental in getting the sapital rules to give $5,000 for the program.

Helping construct the free-standing sculptured wall and the gateway to the pier, Mr. Shalleck said, will "give these kids tangible evidence of what constructive channeling of their energies can do." Mr. Leicht said the initial work would be done at his 6,000-square-foot studio, which is equipped with tools. Some of the young people involved in the program will design the models. Others will work with carpenters to build the designs, with technicians to apply the ferromagnetic and with graphic particle to make the structure. concrete and with graphic artists to paint the structures.

Mr. Shalleck says he has come up with a way to finance the program—the city money and the grant money only cover salaries of $45 and $55 a week for the 40 trainees—by selling spaces on top of Westbeth to view Operation Sail on the Fourth of July. The roof of the 12-story building provides a view of the Hudson River for miles in both directions. The tickets, he says, are $40, and that includes food. The money is tax-

What was billed as the world's largest flag, a red white and blue expanse of nylon tal-feta sailcloth the size of a football field and a half, ripped: apart yesterday in a trial test.

The flag was to have hung from the Verrazano-Narrows

Bridge for the July 4 gathering of ships in New York Harbor. "It's a sad story, but it's beyond repair," said Nicholas Patsis, an administrative engineer for the Triborough Bridge and Tunnel Authority, after he and a crew of workmen spent about eight futile hours trying to salvage the buge American flag.

"The stars are still up, but the stripes are down," Mr. Patsis said. With shreds of the flag flapping out over the bridge, the upper level of the eastbound

lane was closed for several bours as workmen tried to reel

The flag that was to bave hung about 250 feet above the water on a 30-inch-wide steel truss was gently lowered start-ing at 10:30 A.M. when the wind velocity was six miles an hour, the engineer said.

As the flag was lowered, the wind velocity increased to 12 and then 16 miles an hour, causing the flag to press agains the steel framework of the bridge. With the wind pressing against the flag, the horizontal stitching on the end of the flag nearest to Brooklyn began to

Then all hell broke loose, said the engineer. "The seams on the other side started coming apart and we couldn't budge the flag one way or another."

Couple Found Guilty in Rifle Case

A jury in Federal court in Brooklyn found a Brooklyn couple guilty of illegally transporting rifles from California to New York. The couple, Kenneth R. Chin, 29 years old, and his wife, Elizabeth, 33, of 925 Union Street, were arrested last October after a raid on their apartment by Federal agents who suspected a plot to assassinate Emperor Hirohito, who was visiting the United States.

High Court to Hear Port Unit's Case

The Supreme Court of the United States agreed to hear an appeal by Port Authority of New York and New Jersey bondholders attempting to stop the Port Authority from using bond money to finance rapid transit to Newark and Kennedy International Airports. The appeal by the United States Trust Company on behalf of the bondholders will be argued next term. New York and New Jersey authorized the Port Authority to issue bonds in 1962 for the purchase of the Hudson-Manhattan Railroad (now PATH) and for the construction of the World Trade Center Towers.

Olympic Preview Reveals More Problems

MONTREAL, June 28 (UPI) -Ready or not, organizers plunged ahead today toward the July 17 opening of the Summer Olympics following a confused weekeod rehearsal at the maio installations. A crowd, estimated at 100,000 fans, flocked to the Olympic park in the city's East End over the weekend to watch about 1,000 athlates test the services and facilities for the first time.

Officials of the organizing committee (Le Comite Or-ganisateur des Jeux Olympiques) said they were satis-fied with the dry run and ex-oumber of problems that entry. "A lot remains to be done, but I'm confident we'll work out the kinks in time for a smooth opening," a commitman said.

One of the major problems yesterday was that officials oversold tickets for the main stadium events and turned away about 14,000 people, denying them refunds.

Wood. Field and Stream: Artificial Lures Defined coming up from the depths feeding on the white particles

By NELSON BRYANT The incredible variety of baits that fresh water fisherman use is indicated io the recent order by New York State's Commissioner of Environmental Conservation, Pe-

Because some of the state's waters are limited to artificial lures, and anglers had asked for a definition of them, Berle attempted to embrace lures and natural baits in a ruling. Knowing that no list can contain everything Berle in-cluded a "but not limited to"

clause in both definitions. "Artificial lures," he said, "shall mean man-made flies, spinners, spoons, jigs and other lures, eyen though there may be some natural substances contained in such lures as, but not limited to. deer hair and feathers, and artificial imitations of natural

In his list of natural baits "which entice or might be fish" Berle included fish (dead or alive), fish eggs, worms, shellfish, crustacea, amphibians, insects in all stages of development, pork rinds, liver, meat, corn or other vegetable matter, tapioca, candy, cheese and bread.

Some years ago in Vermont and New Hampshire, the sales of cottage cheese in the vicinity of rainbow trout lakes increased tremendously when an enterprising angler found that, when it was cast upon the waters, it served as an excellent chum for big trout that were wont to remain on the bottom dining on big crayfish.

It probably all began when someone couldn't finish the cottage cheese he brought along for his lunch and tossed it overboard, and when he looked down a few

able, for anglers soon discovered that hooks baited with worms did not interest the cheese-eating fish very For several years, on many of these rainbow lakes, the odor of cottage cheese was always hanging over the water on warm June evenings. Individual kernels of whole, cooked corn is used where legal as bait and chum for trout. The Kokanee salwhen he looked down a few mon, a landlocked dwarf minutes later be saw trout form of the Pacific sockeye salmon, has been introduced ioto Connecticut, New York, Vermont and Maine, and is ofteo taken on corn, with the other most popular bait being maggots. Kokanees, whose size at adulthood ranges from 9 to 21 ioches, have tender mouths and are hard to keep on the book.

Anglers also have used uncooked corn (cracked and whole) as chum for trout. Some states, New Hampshire among them, have outlawed all forms of corn because it apparently does not break down in the fish's digestive system fast enough and blocks elimination. New Hampshire law makes it illegal to have corn, rice, or metal, plastic or traineral trails while fishing. Clearly, the experiment with unusual chums and baits continues. One other object that often finds its way into trout lakes with bad effects on the fish, is the filter tip cigarette. I have caught rainbow troot whose digestive systems were shut off by a cigarette

Rookie Hurls 7-Hitter for 8-1 Record

By THOMAS ROGERS Special to The New York Three

DETROIT. June 28-The New York Yankees, mine games ahead in the American League East and sporting a five-game winning streak, began a seven-game road trip tonight against the Tigers in the opener of a three-game series

But the team's winning streak as well as Mickey Rivers's 20-game hitting streak ended as the Yankees were set down, 5-I, by the hlazing fastballs of Mark Fidrych. The Detroit rookie allowed only seven hits while win-ning his eighth game against one loss. He was backed by homers by Rusty Staub and Aurelio Rodriguez.

A crowd of 47,85 and a national television audience saw the lanky Tiger pitcher cool the Yankee bats, which doobleheader sweep yester-day in New York, The only Yankee run came on a sec-ond-inning homer by Elrod

In an attempt to snap his prolonged batting slump and stem its slide vision race, Manager Darrell Johnson made sweeping lineup changes for the Boston Red Sox's opener of a three - game bome series against the Baltimore Orioles last night.

And it worked.

Butch Hobson, a rookie third baseman called up from the minors earlier in the day, was the most welcome change. He smacked a two-run insidethe-park homer in the sixth inning, leading the Sox to a 12-8 slugfest victory. The clout broke an 8-8 tie.

It was the third major league game for Hobson, a right-handed batter who hit 67 runs batted in for Boston's Triple A Rhode Island farm club. His drive to left-center was just out of reach of Paul Blair. Hobson made a belly slide to beat the relay to the plate. Cecil Cooper scored head of him.

Besides calling up Hobson, Johnson replaced Rick Burlesoo at sort with Steve Dillard, another rookie; put Cooper at first and moved Carl Yastrzemski to left in place o fJim Rice, who was made the designated hitter. His other moves were to put Bobby Darwin in right and shift Rico Petrocelli, the seasoned third baseman, to second.

That left only Fred Lynn,

ager, Joe Frazier, reason to remove Seaver and bring in Skip Lockwood. As Lockwood entered the game, a windstorm suddenly invaded the hot, muggy evening and whipped dirt and papers around the field. It was a bizarre scene as flying dirt enveloped the players and pa-pers flew out of the stands behind first base and swirled their way onto the grass in the left-field corner.

The windstorm didn't ease up the rest of the inning and neither did Lockwood. Throwing ooly 12 pitches, he struck out Hector Cruz, Mike Tyson and Jerry Mumphrey in lightning-like order and the Mets emerged from the inning with a shaky one-run lead.

Minutes later, the lead evaporated altogether as Lockwood failed to match his initial effort.

By TERRY ROBARDS Savings institutions, faced with heavy cash inflows and falling yields on their invest-ments, have quietly been reducing the rates they are willing to pay on time deposits.

Savings rates are being shaved by anywhere from one-quarter of a percentage point to a full percentage point be-neath the maximums possible under Federal law on new ac-counts opened by savers at many thrift institutions. The reductions reflect the ef-

New Statistics Show '74-75 Recession to Be Deeper and Recovery Faster

By EDWIN L. DALE Jr. WASHINGTON, June 28—The

1974-75 recession was deeper— and the subsequent recovery faster—than earlier statistics had indicated, revised figures for the Federal Reserve Board's industrial production index showed today. The Reserve Board also published for the first time a new index of manufacturing capacity utilization for materials which will replace the old series for "major materials." This new index shows that for materials industries as a whole capacity utilization in the first were down 24 percent from above the recession lows of April. a report released yesterday by the Conference Board, a business-research organization.

Seasonally adjusted, new appropriations announced during the quarter fell to 55 billion from $15.2 billion a year ago.

Despite the sharp drop, actual expenditues by electric and gas utilities in the first quarter rose to $4.6 billion from $4.5 billion a year earlier.

Banking, industry and investment analysts said the sharp drop in new announcements for a single quarter did not necessarily imply that a trend toward reduced spending was emerging.

Ampex Gains on Heavy Turnover

By ROBERT METZ

Shares of the Ampex Corporation, the once-troubled producer of magnetic recording equipment, closed at 8% on Friday, a gain of 1. Ampex's 261,000 - share turnover on the New York Stock Exchange was the heaviest of the day. Ampex was marginally profitable for years following expansion into a variety of unfamiliar fields, but the company is now in the black. There was no ready expla-nation for the surge in trad-ing and the gain of 13 percent in share price; Ampex shares were active again yes-terday, and the stock closed at 8½, down ¼, m trading on the Big Board. Volume was 71,300 shares.

James Lynch, managing partner of Spear, Leeds & Kellogg, the specialist firm trading the shares on the floor of the exchange, said that Friday's buying came from all over the nation, and that no particular brokerage firm appeared to be responfirm appeared to be responsible for the activity.

Mr. Lynch said that he was

mr. Lynch said that he was unaware of any reason for the trading surge but that he thought the impending visit to New York City on Wednesday by Arthur H. Hausman, president of Hausman, president of Ampex, may have raised hopes. Until last week, the company had not been seeing analysts for some years. Analysts here may believe that the trip would not have been scheduled unless there was good news to report, Mr.

An Ampex spokesman in-dicated that disappointment was in store for analysts anticipating an important development. He said that the company was baffled by the surge in trading. Ampex executives do not believe their remarks at a luncheon meeting held for seven San Francisco analysts on June 21 played a role, the spokes-man said. He added that there were "no projections [at the meeting] and there was no big news." Ampex's comeback is regarded as impressive in the light of massive problems that became manifest in

Prior to that, Ampex was known for its quality tape recording equipment and as the inventor in 1956 of the world's first practical video-tape recorder, successive ver-sions of which have become and still remain the standard for the broadcast industry.

But during the go-go years of the late 1960's, Ampex ex-panded into a variety of new and unfamiliar fields. The company was particularly aggressive in its efforts to establish a position in the prerecorded magnetic business — cassettes and eight-track cartridges. Ampex, like several com-petitors, signed up singers by offering guarantees against royalties. In a number of cases, the royalties were considered too generous.

An analyst asserted that the company was not accus-tomed to the demands of retailers, "When things slowed down, Ampex had to take back lots of tapes that had already been registered as sales," he said.

There were other problems. Ampex competed with International Business Machines in the magnetic memory business and eventually sued the giant computer manufacturer, alleging patent in-fringement and antitrust violations. I.B.M. later paid Ampex $13 million to settle the matteriout of court.

Ampex's strong position in videotape recorders helped the company survive while the LB.M. settlement was pending and while other businesses, including the prebusinesses, including the pre-recorded tape division, were written off. Ampex also sold some assets.
One result is that the company's financial state-ments are littered with footnotes: Analysts have had a difficult time deciding just how profitable Ampex is today. Robert Gutenstein, electronic equipment analyst for Kalb, Voorhis & Company, said that the "simplistic approach" was to look at the company's earnings from continuing operations before nonrecurring items and

On that basis, Ampex earned $9.4 million in the fiscal year ended April 30, 1976, up from about $5 million in the prior year.

Ampex reduced borrowing from $253 million in mid-fiscal 1972 to $110 million at the close of fiscal 1976. The latter figure includes $60 million of subordinated convertible debentures. The consensus seems to be that Ampex has made an impressive start toward a turnaround. Whether the stock will ever become a favorite again remains to be seen. The stock, which set a low of 2 in 1974, sold for 50 in 1969. At today's prices, Ampex is hardly a happy holding for. long-time shareholders.

As a result of this activity and some oegotiation on the civil works contracts and do-Sadli said that by the end of May the $10.5 billion had been reduced to some $6.2 billion. But it is now that the hard bargaining must begin.

The bargaining line that is being pursued by the team of top Indonesian Government officials is a simple one. It revolves around the fact that during the heyday of General Sutowo no one questioned the validity of the general's signature. If a con-tract carried his signature, that was enough. But in those days, many procedures were relaxed by the general, and Indonesia is returning to the letter of the law. the letter of the law.

A contractor who was on the receiving end of this argument described it recently as follows:

"They arrive in the room all smiles, and the contracts are pulled out. 'So, you say you have a valid contract and you want your payment? they say. I nod my bead. But who authorized this contract? they continue. "General Sutowo? But who authorized him to make this contract oo behalf of the Government of Indonesia? No case? Ab well they let's die.

ducing revenue to pay for is the same: "Indonesian procedures were not properly followed; take part of your money and tear up the contract now, or risk losing the whole thing in a lengthy court action," he asserted.

Unrespai Bill of Goods

Thus far, this technique has had particular success in the dealings with local Indonesian contractors who must worry about being able to continue operations in their home country. But the bulk of the problem lies with a group of international tanker operators and owners who sold General Surowo an unusual hill of goods.

If these suits are not set-led quickly and in Indonesia's favor, they could soon. The most immediate problem is that the more than $1 billion loans advanced last year by two syndicates of banks headed by the Morgan Guaranty Trust Company of New York and the Bank of Tokyo reportedly have a clause that allows them to be cut off or suspended if Pertamina's assets are frozen for longer than 30 days. This time limit had almost elapsed in the New York suit before it was re-

But beyond that, most bankers feel these suits cloud the entire financial picture of Pertamina and Indonesia into the foresceable future. Dr. Sadii himself has cooceded that Pertamina is unable to meet its payments of princi-pal and interest on its out-standing loans — most of which do not actually require the first payment until next year under a two-year debt moratorium.

ferred to arbitration at the

Its current debt burdens alone, exclusive of the tanker contracts, will require some '$1 billion a year or more well into the 1980's and the talk in Jakarta in banking circles rescheduling.

Neither is the picture particularly bright on the revenue side. Many of the smaller companies are already pulling out or decreasing their operations substantially. And while the Government got an additional dollar a barrel out of Caltex, the largest operator in Indonesia, it has yet to go after the smaller operators who are on productiontors who are on production-sharing contracts.

Only 14 drilling rigs are operating in Indonesian waters, compared with 25 in the boom years of 1973 and 1974. And production figures from May show a sharp drop during the month by Caltex from more than 840,000 bar-rels a day to 750,000. reis a day to 750,000.

Tax Advantage Lost An adverse ruling, too, by the United States Internal Revenue Service several months ago also meant that the American companies operating in Indonesia lost a substantial tax advantage when the I.R.S. ruled that the payments to the Indonesian Government were royalties and oot foreign taxes and and oot foreign taxes and therefore oot deductible as

Three TV Questions Answered

By PHILIP H. DOUGHERTY A recent night of watching tha tube disclosed that while the programming may not have been provocative, some commercials raised a number of questions.

How does Meadowlark
Lemon of the Harlem Globetrotters keep that tower of hamburgers from toppling?
How does a supermarket chain offer to give 5 percent of gross sales to charities when it's known that the chains don't do that well?
How long has the General Foods' Composition the cof-

Foods Corporation, the coffee-dog food-cereal-Jello giant, been selling powdered lemonade?

A call to Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn, agency for Burger King, a subsidiary of the Pillsbury Company, cleared up the first question.
Mr. Lemnn's Pisa of 90 patties and buns is kept erect with the help of a thin copper tube up through their centers.

Actually, while producing the spot, the source dis-closed, more than 300 burgthe "Have it your way" theme. He also noted that if including double-patty Whoppers there are actually more than 500 different combinations, possible to anneal binations possible to appeal to taste buds.

Now on to the second question. A couple of weeks back the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company introduced into this area a promo-tion called Donation Days, which is getting considerable TV aupport. It allows fund-raising groups to give their members A. & P. issued cards that are handed to the cards that are banded to the cash-ier at the checkout and entitle the charity to S percent of the member's purchase. Tobacco and liquor pur-chases are not included.

What makes the economics of the promotion difficult to understand is that, according to the Supermarket Institute, the average before-tax net income of supermarket chains is about 1.S percent.

An A.&P. spokesman explained that individual fundraising groups would be assigned one day—a Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday, traditionally slow days at the markets. Since most of costs that lead to the low margins are fixed expenses, the rise in traffic in turn is expected to increase those margins.

Besides, even though 700 organizations signed up in the first week of the campaign, no one store is expect-ed to be inundated, with the help of McCann-Erickson, A.&P. is building up all of that good will and store traf-

Price and Pride, a company spokesman said, will not at-tempt to take a charitable tax write-off for this promotion because that would require them to verify the taxexempt status of each fund-raising group, which in turn would limit the number of participating organizations. Instead, the cost will be

Other vital commercial questions will be answered as they arise.

2 PUBLISHING UNITS SETTLE LIBEL SUIT

Dow Jones & Company and McGraw-Hill Inc. have settled a libel suit that arose from an articla in Business Week maga-zine in April 1975, the two companies announced yesterarticle in Business Week, a McGraw-Hill publication, contained an allegation about Barron's Weekly, a financial publication of Dow Jones. The allegation, attribut ed in the article to James E. Corr 3d, an investor, was that a small group close to Alan Abelson, managing editor of Barron's, knew of Barron's positive comment on three com-panies before publication. Harold W. McGraw Jr., chairman and president of McGraw-Hill, said Business Week did not state in the article that information had been disclose or mean to imply that it bad. Attorneys for both companies greed there was no evidence that advance information on the contents of Barron's was intentinnelly given to investors by Mr. Abelson, Barron's or Dow Jones.

According to the Public Relations Society of America, it could be the biggest or one of the biggest such deals in the history of the business. Hill & Knowlton bad 1975 fee income of $15 million while Gottlieb had about $1.2 million.

The two companies have reached an agreement in principal for H. & K. to buy Gottlieb's stock for an undisclosed amount of cash. Although it will move into

H. & K.'s headquarters building, Gottlieb will continue to operate under its own name with its own management. In announcing the deal, William A. Durbin, chairman of H. & K., noted the strength of the 29-year-old Gottlieb organization in product publicity in such areas as food and wine and pointed out that these would complement his organization's expertise in corporate public relations.

The other Gottlieb offices are in Washington and Los Angeles. Hill & Knowlton, with 555 employees, compared with Gottlieb's 35, has 26 international offices.

Net Inflow of Savings Increases in May The net inflow of Savings in federally insured savings and loan associations rose in May to $2.82 billion, up from an increase of $2.58 billion in April, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board reported. But the increase was smaller than the inflow of savings in the first three months of this year when monthly gains ranged from $3.7 billion to $5.1 billion.

Mortgage lending by savings and loan associations continued to rise, Mortgage loans closed last month rose to $6.45 billion, a record for May, up from $6.4 billion in April, and 22.9 percent better than in May 1975, when the roduction for the week ne 26 rebounded from eding week's decline in of 1.9 percent, the Iron and Steel Instirted yesterday. ede association report he nation's steel mills total of 2.715 million Dollar and Gold Close Lower in Europe BRUSSELS, June 28 (UPI)—The dollar had a mixed performance on European money markets today but was generally lower. The price of gold dropped $1 in London to close at $123.875 an ounce, and in Zurich it dropped $5 cents to close at $124.

The dollar closed at 2.579 marks in Frankfurt, up from Friday's close of 2.5765. It closed unchanged in Paris at 4.747 francs. But on other markets it lost ground. It went from 2.4735 Swiss francs Friday to 2.463 and in Amsterdam it went from 2.74 guilders to 2.738.

In Milan the dollar closed at 843 lire, compared with 844 Friday, and in London the pound, at $1.775, was up slightly from Friday's $1.7725.

2 Banks in Denver and Kentucky Fail Two small banks, the Coronado National Bank of Denver and the Mount Zion Deposit Bank of Dry Ridge, Ky.,

have become the eighth and ninth banks to fail this year, compared with six bank failures for the same period last Coronado National held $2.6 million in 4,000 deposit accounts and Mount Zion $500,000 from 420 depositors. The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation said that all deposits would be paid in full and it would begin paying depositors at the banks early this week. The F.D.I.C. added that it had attempted to find healthy banks to take over the assets of the foundering ones, but without success. Study Finds Oil Companies Beyond Law WASHINGTON, June 28 (UPI)—The oil industry has grown beyond the ability of government to control it effectively with laws already on the books, a Senate Judiciary Committee report said today. . The committee approved a bill two weeks ago that would break up the larger oil companies operating in all three fields of petroleum exploring processing and distributing.

The bill would prevent companies that are big in production from having interests in refining or transportation, for example.

Weather Reports and Forecast

Summary

Variably cloudy skies and warm and humid conditions will dominate the eastern third of the country today; scattered showers and occasional "thunderstorms may occur from New England and the lake region to the eastern Gulf Coast. Additional precip-Itation .. will be limited to scattered showers along the coast of the Pacific North-west. It, will be mild across the Ohio Valley, upper Mississippi Valley and upper lake regioo; warm or hot weather will prevail elsewhere. Fair skies should cover the rest of the country. Sunny weather continued yesterday over most of the Northeast and Middle Atlantic States: some clouds moved into New England, the lake regioo and Southeast. Intense thunderstorms developed over Missouri and Kansas, wbile moderate showers and thundershowers occurred throughout the re-mainder of the Midwest: showers were also scattered under low clouds from the Carolinas' to Louisinana. Warm and humid conditions throughout the eastern third of the country, while warm or hot weather also deminated most of the southern two-thirds of the country, Except for the Cen-tral Plains States, it was clear from the Mississippi Valley to the Pacific Coast.

. Going from public television to cable, the action on pay television, specifically on Home Box Office, has pro-vided some fascinating mo-meets of its own in recent weeks. For one imaginative programming example, H.R.O. offered the final two episodes of "Beacon Hill" that were never shown on CBS-TV. These were the episodes that These were the episodes that involved the active production participation of John Hawkesworth, a key figure in the success of "Unstairs," the British inspiration for "Beacon Hill."

In fact, the episodes were among the better in the 13-part series, The stories were part series. The stories were anchored more in character than in artificial plot manipulations. The Debut had Mrs. Lassiter imperiously entering a speakeasy to fetch her spoiled granddaughter back to the social obligations of her "stuffy family." In "The Visitor," Mr. Hacker, the major-domo butler, was visited by his British sister, whose airs could hardly have been more royal. In addition, Rosamund, the unmarried Lassister daughter, finally connected, so to speak, with Brian the chanffeur.

With seeming calculation, the two episodes gave prominent roles to the best actors in the company: Nancy Mar-chand, Paul Rudd, George Rose, Kitty Winn and Linda Purl This intelligent tactic, supplemented with service-able scripts, worked nicely. But all that is too Bule, too late for "Beacon Hill," now relegated to that giant elec-tronic graveyard in the sky. The Home Box Office presentation was intriguing for another reason. With Dick Cavett as host, the presen-Cavett as host, the presentation asked viewers to send in a yes or no vote on the quality of the programs.

Mr. Cavett has been an outspoken critic of the Neilsen ratings, and the occasion was obviously meant to prove that direct audience response that direct audience response is more reliable than ratings computers. And, indeed, as of 3 A.M. one morning, Western Union had received 33,195 votes on "Beacon Hill," with

For revealing contrast, using the same area systems.
"Gone With the Wind" (shown six times) was seen by 57 to 7S percent of the potential audience, and a Bette Midler program racked up shares of 54 to 69 percent. Once again, the numbers may be infuriating to assorted interests, vest-ed or otherwise, but, within the larger television picture,

If the decision is to try for the northwest site, the landing would take place about 9 A.M. Eastern daylight time July 22. A landing at Tritonis Lacus could come no earlier than 10 P.M. July 21.

• ¶On July 5, if the scientists decide that all the sites are about equally hazardous, the decision could still be made to proceed to a landing at the original Chryse site. The landing would be on the night of July 9.

Senators McGovern and Goldwater, ABC's newest convention commentators, talk about TV's influence on politics

By Michael Ryan

A new dimension is being added to television coverage of the national political conventions this summer: two former Presidential candidates, both senetors and one-time major-party Presidential nominees, are joining the regular ABC News team as commentators. Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.), the 1964 Republican nominee, will help cover the Democratic convention in July, and Sen. George McGovern (D-S.D.), the 1972 Democratic standard-bearer, will work the Republican convention in August. Each will receive $25,000 for his work. TV GUIDE recently interviewed both men; following are some of their thoughts on television and politics.

Q: What would you say was the effect that television had on your campaigns?

McGovern: I thought television was essential to my winning the nomination in 1972. I was a comparatively unknown candidate. First, I had to establish a grass-roots organization. Once that was in place, then it became importent for the voters to know-who I was. That was done through a combinetion of public-service television—when I was interviewed on the Today show, Issues and Answers, Face the Nation end so on—plus paid television human-interest spots. I think the combination was rather effective.

Where I think television did us in was in the general election; where I was exposed to television under rather unflattering circumstances. I don't think that there was any plot or anything of that sort. But I would be out on the hustings somewhere with my hair blowing In the wind—what little hair I have—and there'd be a bad lighting situation at maybe 10 o'clock at night, with the cameras off at a 45-degree angle from me and 10 feet below me, and I'd be trying to hammer home some point. What came across to the viewer, I think, was a picture of some kind of a desperate, frantic candidate, out there trying to awaken the Nation to something it didn't want to be awakened to.

Nixon was much wiser in the way he used television. He was seldom exposed except under ideal lighting conditions. He was calm, had on a clean shirt, fresh shave, and was shown responding to two or three thoughtful questions. The contrast was pathetic, and devastating to me.

Goldwater: My situation was different from George's. I was very well-known in the party. Getting the nomination was never any worry, so television didn't play any really big part. I was up against an incumbent, though, and if I had been elected I would have been the third President In about two-and-a-half years.

In television, I don't think there was any organized effort to get me; there wasn't any organized effort to help me, either. For example, I'm e gun collector, I make guns. But I was pictured as a dangerous one to have his finger near the red button. I remember one television show opened up with the door knocker on my apartment, which is an old brass six-shooter. At another interview, in my home in Phoenix, in my library—which is probably the biggest private library on Arizona and Northern Mexico in existence—I had one book titled "The Six-Gun." That was the only book they centered on in the whole place.

Q: Would you egree that the American people get most of their ideas of e President's personality end effectiveness from his television appearances?

Goldwater: I would agree with that. When the President wants to make a point, I don't care who the President is, he goes on national television; you get a lot of reaction to that. If he just makes a decision et the White House and it's reported, the reaction is less than mediocre.

. Q: Does television make the incumbent unbeatable?

Goldwater: He can do himself a lot of good! I don't like to rehearse; but if you go over your cue cards three or four times, and you have people who know lighting, who know camera angles, you've got a decided advantege.

McGovern: I'd agree with that I think television is a great tool in the hands of an incumbent. The White House is just an enormous advantage. There's an aura of glory and grandeur about it and the television camera can pick that up. The big seal and the Oval Room—these are very impressive to a lot of Americans. They don't want the Presidency assailed by anybody.

Q. Both of you ran campaigns with a very strong emphasis on issues. Can TV-adequately convey issues?

Goldwater: Well, if it were up to what the candidate himself says, and not what the interpretation by the commentators says, I would say yes, that the candidate could have a very decided effect. But when you have a commentator or two on each network or each radio station, immediately after you have said whet you wanted to say, telling the public what you really said, think they may destroy a lot of the good that you

McGovern: Let me register one beef from my own campaign. There were times when we would heve a great rally where local leaders would tell us, "This is the biggest crowd we've ever seen at Cleveland Airport!" Or. "This is the biggest crowd we've ever had at Post Office Square in Boston!" I would turn on the television set later to see the enormous throng, and, well, there would be a 15-second spot of me addressing this crowd. Then, under some kind of curious interpretation of the equal-time rule, since Nixon was not campaigning, they would pick up some guy along the fence who would say, "I think McGovern stinks"

And this would be the way the program would end—or "McGovern said this, but a disgruntled former Democrat interviewed by our roving reporter said this." And then they had some jerk get up and say that I was too radical for him or that I couldn't make up my mind on the issues. What the viewer was left with was a final negative image. It happened repeatedly during the Goldwater: Those are the little things that can happen when a television reporter is not friendly with your views. I remember in Memphis, I think, we had the biggest turnout they'd ever had inhistory, and the television reporter said it was a "moderate-sized crowd." I think there were 225,-000. I had the same thing in Atlanta, and just es George said, they'd wander around until they found somebody who said "That Goldwater's an S.O.B." I once said that if I believed all I heard on television and radio that was said about me, I would have voted against the S.O.B. myself.

Q: Senator McGovern, it was said that you made poor use of television at the 1972 convention.

McGovern: That's a fair criticism. It was an unstructured and uncontrolled convention situation. It's ridiculous to have the nominee give his acceptance speech et 3 o'clock in the morning. The trouble is that we had been the outsiders and challengers so long that when we actually won the nomination, we weren't prepared for victory. I should have simply got hold of [then chairman of the Democratic National Committee] tarry O'Brien and said.

- Q: Has TV changed conventions?

Goldwater: Oh Lord, yes. You know the tube's always up there looking. I guess 1952 was the first big year of television, but it's at the point now where everybody is absolutely perfect. They're in their seats; you rarely see anybody drunk. You might see some people sleeping, which you do, and that might be the effect of drink, but today conventions are very tame

"Look, I want that acceptance speech on the air

no later than 10 o'clock; that's it."

affairs. Before, you might have had an argument, there might be a fist-fight, always obviously people drinking, having a good time. Today, it's senous business.

McGovern: Going back to my criticism of our own timing of the acceptance speech: outside of that, while it is fair to say that we showed a lot of things on prime time that perhaps aroused some anxieties, frankly that '72 Democratic convention was an honest, straightforward expression of what people were thinking. I think some of that came across.

Q: Does the convention work more smoothly because television is there?

Goldwater: I think so. You now have the advantage that you didn't have a few years ago of a highly portable camera. This lets you get around to caucuses where you couldn't get before. It lets you look in sometimes on the meetings that are being held, talking about Vice-Presidential candidates, talking about this or that i'd just as soon stay home and watch the convention as Derthere.

McGovern: The truth of the matter is, you sometimes have to turn on a television set to find out what the hell is going on. With eight or 10 trained reporters covering every aspect of not only the convention half but the key headquarters of the various candidates, they're feeding into that control room more coverage to the television viewer than any one of the delegates is going to get sitting there on the floor. They've got those cameras in the key hotels where the major candidates are, and they're following various activities that you can't see from the convention floor. I found repeatedly at conventions that when I really wanted to get an update on exactly where we were at, I had to go to my room and turn on the television set.

Q: Do you find the quality of broadcast journalism as good as print?

Goldwater: That's a very interesting question. After my campaign, I asked men I knew, like Harry Reasoner, Walter Cronkite and others, and they made a very good answer. They said, "Look, no matter how we may feel about you, whether we like you or don't like you, we can't hide that fact from our eyes or our tone of voice." In that effect, I think they do show discrimination, but I think it's natural. I think they try to do the best job. If I have any criticism of average coverage, it's that there are not enough men who've ever been in the political game, who know what they're talking about. They don't know what a candidate goes through 18 hours a day, I made 16 speeches one day—that was my record—: from Lubbock, Texas, to the Gulf of Mexico. You're so tired, you even get to the point where you wonder, "Good Lord, what did I just say?"

McGovern: That's one of the constant problems in campaigning—the fatigue factor. As a think back on it, I see that most of the mistakes that I made were made when I was tired. I think that's true of most candidates, and that's going to come across more in the visual medium than in the written media.

I'd say this, though: I've seen more bias and personal vendettas from syndicated columnists, who supposedly have a chance to think these things over, than I have from television commentators. I think the television commentators are under the restraint of knowing that they are publicly licensed and that they are supposed to be objective. The syndicated columnists somehow think they have a license to say anything they damn please. Once they have it in for you, even though you may not understand the bias of it, they can make life miserable for you. I've hed two or three of them whom I would gladly dump over the nearest cliff. If I had the power to do it.

Q: Senator Goldwater mentioned his feeling that there should be more people who had been in politics on television. Do you think that you will start a trend?

McGovern: It depends on how well we do. My guess is that it will be in the future: If we do it well, and I think we will, I have no doubt that other networks will do the same thing.
